RHODES FORMULA ACCEPTABLE

. . . Egypt Says It Doesn't Constitute Direct Talks

By The Associated Press

Egypt declared Wednesday it would accept the so-called Rhodes formula for negotiating a settlement with Israel, the same formula used to bring both sides to an armistice 20 years ago.

A government spokesman said in Cairo that Egypt remains resolutely opposed to any direct talks with Israel but that the 1949 Rhodes formula would be acceptable because it did not constitute direct negotiations.

'Package Deal' Acceptable

He also said Egypt would not insist on Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories as a precondition to a settlement based on the U.N. Security Council's November 1967 resolution outlining an Arab-Israeli peace. Egypt, the spokesman said, would accept a "package deal" for implementation of the resolution.

The spokesman's comment on the Rhodes formula prompted a question at the United Nations about the formula's definition.

In February and March 1949, Egyptian and Israeli delegations met separately on the Isle of Rhodes in the Mediterranean with U.N. mediator Ralph Bunche of the United States. Bunche carried proposals and counterproposals back and forth between the two sides, and the talks eventually produced the 1949 Egyptian-Israeli armistice.

Definition Asked For

After the Egyptian spokesman's comments Wednesday, a U.N. spokesman was asked for his definition of the formula. He recalled that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said at a news conference last month that during the Rhodes talks, "the discussions were going on between Dr. Bunche and the parties concerned without involving direct talks. But when there was a basis for agreement, Dr. Bunche was able to bring about direct talks."

The question of direct or indirect negotiations has been an important obstacle to a settlement of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war because Israel has insisted that it meet face to face with the Arabs to work out a peace agreement, and the Arabs have refused to enter such talks.

The Security Council resolution outlining a Middle East settlement calls for Israeli withdrawal from the occupied areas, Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist, freedom of navigation in international waterways, a solution to the Palestinian refugee problem and "secure and recognized" borders for the nations in the area.

The Egyptian spokesman also said it would be up to Gunnar V. Jarring, Thant's special representative to promote a settlement in the Middle East, to decide if the Rhodes formula would be useful in his current search for a settlement.

About the same time, a U.N. spokesman announced that Jarring was leaving for Moscow Wednesday night to "resume for the time being his duties as Swedish ambassador" to the Soviet Union.

The spokesman declined to say whether Jarring had made any progress in his recent talks in New York with foreign ministers of the opposing nations. He added, however, that the envoy "will continue to keep closely in touch with development and intends to resume his active efforts at an appropriate time."

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel told her cabinet that in her talks last week with Secretary-General Thant she stressed Israel's readiness to hold "direct negotiations" with the Arabs under Jarring's auspices.

In Tel Aviv, the military command announced that Israeli jets attacked two Arab guerrilla bases in northeast Jordan and returned safely to base. The raids, 22 miles inside the Jordanian border, were among the deepest penetrations of Jordan by Israeli planes since the 1967 war.

A Jordanian military spokesman in Amman said the jets killed two civilians and wounded six with rocket and machine-gun fire.

2 Jets Hijacked On Guevara Day

By The Associated Press

Two South American jetliners were hijacked to Cuba Wednesday, the second anniversary of the death of Ernesto "Che" Guevara, hereo of the Cuban revolution.

It was not known whether there was any connection between the jijackings and the anniversary. Guevara was an Argentine-born revolutionary' killed by Bolivian soldiers when trapped with a band of guerrillas Oct. 8, 1967.

Forty five planes have now been hijacked to Cuba this year.

One of the planes hijacked Wednesday was a Miami-bound Aerolineas Argentinas jet carrying 54 passengers and 17 crew members. Four Americans were reported aboard.

Children Hostages

The pilot, Capt. Anibal Aguirre, radioed that five young men armed with submachine guns seized three children as hostages shortly before the Boeing 707 was due to land at Santiago, Chile, the first stop on its flight from Buenos Aires.

"These gentlemen are threatening me with submachine guns and appear to be quite aggressive," Aguirre reported. He said all five were Argentines and "appeared to be students."

The hijackers permitted the plane to land in Santiago but ordered all windows shuttered while the craft was refueled. Security guards cordoned off the plane on the runway.

No Action Advised

An airline spokesman said Chilean authorities offered to order air force troops to prevent the plane from taking off, but the pilot strongly advised against any interference.

No one was permitted to get in or off the plane, but the hijackers let Aguirre drop a passenger list to an engineer on the ground. After 43 minutes in Santiago, the plane took off for Havana with a full load of fuel.

Aguirre radioed that there was no panic on board and that the passengers aboard Flight 360 had "resigned themselves to a trip to Cuba." The pilot said he would fly straight to Havana and bypass a scheduled stop in Lima, Peru.

Brazilian Hijacked

A few hours earlier, a Brazilian Cruzeiro do Sul jetliner carrying 43 persons on a domestic flight was hijacked and forced to fly to Georgetown, Guyana.

There, a government spokesman said the airport staff was instructed to refuel the plane after the four hijackers threatened to blow it up.

The copilot was permitted to leave to convey the hijackers' demands and to say that the pilot was being held at gunpoint. He also was told to say the hijackers had bombs aboard.

The plane subsequently took off for Cuba. Some 15 bombs have exploded in Argentine cities in recent days, and the wave of bombings appeared to be connected with the anniversary.

Washington (UPI) — Mayor Alfonso J. Cervantes of St. Louis said "the bankruptcy of our cities" should take precedence over the anti-ballistic missile when the federal government spends its money.

FRANCE HONORS APOLLO 11 ASTRONAUTS

French Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas, left, embraces Apollo 11 astronaut Michael Collins after presenting him with the Legion of Honor in Paris Wednesday. Standing by with their Legion of Honor decorations are Collins' fellow astronauts, Neil Armstrong and Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin, the first two men on the moon. The three are touring the world. Their stop previous to France was in Spain.

Car Sales Zoning Change Supported

. . . BY PLANNING GROUP

On a 7-2 vote Wednesday, the City-County Planning Commission recommended that new and used car sales firms be permitted in G Local Business zoning districts of 15 acres or larger.

The adopted amendment would permit Kaer Vanice III to move his auto dealership to 70th and O Sts. if the City Council adopts the recommendation and also changes the zone at the location to G Local Business.

Vanice said following the meeting that he was satisfied with the zoning amendment as adopted by the planning group.

Opposed Move

Commissioners Thelma Miller and Robert Allington voted against the motion.

Mrs. Miller asserted that the planning commissioners would be "going against good zoning principles" if they recommended the change.

Prior to the vote, planning commissioners turned down two conditions which Planning Director Douglas Brogden had recommended if car lots were to be permitted in G Local Business districts.

The conditions would be unenforceable if challenged in the courts, according to an opinion from the city legal department.

Brogden had recommended more restrictive setback requirements and a minimum size of three acres for car lots.

'Discriminatory'

Richard Wood, chief assistant attorney of the legal department's civil division, told planning commission members that the two conditions could be construed as discriminatory classification of restrictions within a zoning district.

Wood added that permitting automotive sales firms only in zoning districts consisting of 15 acres or more "could likely be sustained in the courts."

Brogden had told the commission earlier that the conditions were necessary, saying auto firms are different than the normal services provided in a neighborhood shopping center.

He indicated the conditions would aid in preventing potential deterioration of existing small neighborhood shopping centers.

Objections

Taylor Greer, an attorney representing Vanice during a recent public hearing, had objected to the two conditions.

Commissioner Adam Breckenridge said he is concerned about outdoor lighting employed by car dealers and questioned whether restrictions on lighting could be placed on businesses in G-1 Planned Commercial and G Local Business districts.

"We don't need them as bright as the sun," Breckenridge suggested.

The planning commission asked Brogden to draw up a recommendation on possible restrictions on lighting and provisions for shielding the lights.

Sutherland Man Now In Line For Top IOOF Post

Sutherland (AP) — J. Ray King, Sutherland rancher who served as Nebraska grand master of Nebraska Odd Fellows in 1961 and 1962, has been named soverign grand warden of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at the 150th anniversary convention held in Baltimore.

King was named to the line of succession in the 1.3 million member fraternal order on the fifth ballot in the election defeating, Clarence W. Brandt of Mankato, Minn. It was the only contested office.

Next year King will become deputy soverign grand master and the following year he will be grand master, heading the organization.

Direct Election OK Unlikely Here

. . . BUT AT LEAST ONE STATE SENATOR HAVING SECOND THOUGHTS

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Legislature, firmly on record in favor of the congressional district elector plan, would not be likely to ratify a constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of the President.

In the waning days of the 1969 session, lawmakers voted 29-2 to adopt a resolution endorsing the district plan.

But at least one senator who supported the resolution is now having second thoughts.

"I'm getting a little more sold on the direct election plan all the time," Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln said Wednesday.

"It's not as bad as I once thought it was."

Luedtke said he believes the 1971 Legislature would reject the direct election idea, if the proposal is sent to the states by the U.S. Senate, but he is no longer certain how he would vote on the issue.

"Too much stress has been placed on the little states being taken by the big cities," Luedtke said.

'Fail To Consider'

"What we fail to adequately consider is the fact that our quite substantial presidential margins, in combination with other midwestern states, could be very effective in the overall national picture."

President Nixon won Nebraska by more than 150,000 votes in 1968.

Nixon won the state in 1960 by 148,000 votes. President Eisenhower captured Nebraska by a whomping 233,000-vote margin in 1952 and by 179,000 votes in 1956.

To Luedtke, a Republican, the size of those GOP margins looks "mighty good" when, in combination with other midwestern Republican states, they could be used to cancel out more narrow Democratic margins in more populous states.

"Big margins in these smaller states could offset a lot of the eastern power," he suggested.

Luedtke said legislative rejection of a direct election plan seems certain when one confronts the reality that "the Legislature is loaded with people who are not really sold on the one-man, one-vote concept."

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha believes there is "no question" but that the Unicameral would refuse to ratify such a constitutional change.

Take Power Away

"It would take power away from Nebraska," he insisted.

"We would lose strength to people in New York and California, and they already have too much power now as far as I'm concerned."

Only two Omaha senators —George Syas and William Skarda — voted against the district elector proposal contained in Resolution 140, sponsored by Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha.

Welfare Department Seeking Space In Woodmen Building

The State Welfare Department is negotiating for office space in the Woodmen Accident and Life Building just north of the State Capitol.

State Welfare Director Harold Strode said Wednesday his department is negotiating with company officials for rental of 17,600 square feet of office space on the fourth floor.

Company officials say this space will become available about March 1 when an addition to the present building is completed.

Strode said the department is "hopeful" of obtaining a rental figure commensurate with the department's present costs for offices in the Capitol and two "outside" offices.

For the past year, the department has been attempting to consolidate its offices under one roof to improve administrative efficiency and costs.

Earlier plans to move to Lincoln Air Park West and later to occupy the old Lincoln Municipal Building fell through.

New Ism Coined By Czech Paper

Vienna, Austria (AP)— A new ism appeared Wednesday in the Czechoslovak Communist lexicon-Dubcekism. It was characterized as "right-wing opportunism of the time."

The terminology was the focus of an article in the Slovak party newspaper, Pravda, devoted to ousted Czechoslovak party first secretary Alexander Dubcek who led last year's unsuccessful reform movement.

Dubcekism, the party paper, said, stands for inability to make a profound Marxist-Leninist analysis . . . weakness, uncertainty, toleration and defeatism."

'Motorized Missiles' Create Increased Accident Hazards

Washington (AP) — Those superpowered cars with the big engines, air scoops, fat racing tires and "four-on-the-floor" are racking up 56% larger accident losses, an insurance executive told Congress Wednesday.

Dean Jeffers, president of Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co., the nation's fifth largest auto insurer, then announced at a Senate hearing that his firm is increasing by 50% insurance rates on these cars to discourage their appeal. He called them "motorized missiles."

Jeffers said his firm doesn't consider owners of these cars unsafe drivers and acknowledged that "all these cars are not purchased for fast-driving thrills."

But, he said, "these cars certainly are not conducive to moderate driving. Indeed, they are powered well above the needs of the prudent defensive driver and above the traffic capacity of most streets and roads."

"Four on the floor" is the auto buffs' term for a floor-mounted stick gearshift with four forward speeds.

Superpower List

Among cars listed under Nationwide's superpower category by Jeffers are the Corvette, Mustang Mach I, Oldsmobile 442, Pontiac GTO, Plymouth Road Runner, Dodge Charger 500, AMX, Malibu SS 396, and the Mercury Cougar Eliminator.

Jeffers said the increase in rates on this type of car was prompted by a special actuarial study made by his firm over a three-year period.

It showed, he said in testimony before the Senate antitrust monopoly subcommittee, that the high powered cars Detroit turns out to appeal to the "under-30 set" produce an average of 56% more in accident losses than standard powered cars.

"This much higher loss experience simply cannot be ignored," Jeffers said. "It is compelling evidence that insurance for overpowered cars should be priced higher. It is really the fair thing to do."

Unless insurance rates are increased on these cars, the average driver will wind up paying part of the insurance losses, he said.

New York Times News Summary

Response To Signals From China Considered

(C) New York Times News Service

Washington — Various branches of the United States government were considering how to respond to apparent signals from Peking of a softening in China's long-standing policy of hostility to the United States. Cautious public statements and diplomatic reports by nations with embassies in Peking have formed what seems to be a probe of the Nixon administration's expressed intention to improve relations with China.

Secret Signal Helps

Rome — A secret recognition signal in a small cafe, a walkie-talkie hidden near the coast and intermittent flashlight signals in the dark were elements in the rescue of a Greek politician from the small island on which he had been interned by the current military-backed regime in Athens. A group of Italians led by a journalist announced the daring rescue of Gheorghios Milonas, minister of education in the last Democratic Greek cabinet.

Nigeria Frees Playwright

Lagos, Nigeria — Nigeria's best-known playwright, Wole Soyinka, was released by the Nigerian federal government after more than two years in prison without formal charges. His arrest stemmed from a visit he made to Biafra in 1967, during which he urged a mutual cease-fire. His release is apparently the first under a limited amnesty declared Oct. 1.

Kennedy Wants Rights Protected

. . . IF INQUEST IS HELD

Boston (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy doesn't want to block an inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne, but wants his rights to be protected if one is held, his lawyer said Wednesday.

Edward B. Hanify, counsel for Kennedy, asked the State Supreme Court to prescribe a new body of rules for the conduct of inquests, so that Kennedy and other witnesses may have counsel there with the right to cross-examine witnesses. He also asked that the inquest be closed to the public.

Hanify also challenged the constitutionality of the state's inquest law.

Judge James A. Boyle of the Edgartown District Court, where the inquest was scheduled, had ruled that lawyers for witnesses could be present only while their clients were testifying, and would be barred from cross-examining witnesses.

Only Newsmen

Judge Boyle also ruled that the inquest would be public, but specified that only accredited newsmen would be admitted to the 132 seats available in the Edgartown courtroom.

"It is our contention that the statute, particularly the requirement that the judge report the name of any person whose unlawful act or negligence contributed to a death, and the provision for the judge to order an immediate arrest, makes an inquest an accusatory proceeding," Hanify said.

"Are you claiming an inquest is unconstitutional, no matter how it is conducted?" Chief Justice Raymond S. Wilkins asked.

"No, your honor, not if this court lays down new rules and restrictions," Hanify replied. If the court doesn't declare the inquest law unconstitutional, Hanify said, it should "fortify the statute with an infusion of constitutional protection by orders to the Superior Court and other courts.'

Disqualification Asked

In his conclusion Hanify also requested that the court direct Judge Boyle to disqualify himself from the inquest, since he was a party to the present Supreme Court appeal.

The petitions by Kennedy and nine other prospective witnesses who were among the Kennedy group named Judge Boyle as the respondent.

In opposition to the petitions, Asst. Atty. Gen. Joseph J. Hurley said that the disqualification proposal was being brought up for the first time.

Corporation Said Formed To Inflate Rakeoffs

Washington (UPI) — Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge and three other senior sergeants formed a corporation to inflate their rakeoffs, kickbacks and thefts from Army service clubs in Vietnam, Senate investigators testified Wednesday.

The charges were made before a Senate permanent investigations subcommittee looking into Army service club scandals and the Army's alleged negligence in dealing with them.

Carmine S. Bellino, a subcommittee accountant, said the Maredem Co. recorded $1.2 million in sales and $132,000 in profits during its first 11 months selling supplies to Army service clubs managed by Maredem's owners.

While Wooldridge was serving on the staff of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, he pocketed about $20,000 in profits, Bellino charged.

The four sergeants, he testified, financed the Maredem Co. with funds they had stashed in German and Swiss banks from rakeoffs and gambling "skims" at service clubs in Augsburg and Munich, Germany.

Wooldridge, 47, formerly sergeant major of the Army and as such the Army's top-ranking enlisted man, has said he will decline to testify when called Thursday on grounds that he might incriminate himself. However, he has told newsmen he is innocent of the charges.

"Here we have a company formed by four master sergeants who have been together from Augsburg to (Ft.) Benning — wherever the action is," said Sen. Abraham A. Ribcoff, D-Conn., acting subcommittee chairman.

"They deal with themselves, pay themselves, rake in the profit for themselves . . . While the sergeants were stealing from clubs on at least three continents during a five-year period, there was general indifference by Army authorities. No one seemed to care very much."

Freezer Deal

Bellino told of one transaction in which one Maredem owner, M. Sgt. William E. Higdon, bought a $9,000 walk-in freezer for one of the clubs under his management in Vietnam, paying for it with money servicemen spent at the club for food, drink and entertainment.

According to Bellino, Hatcher then shipped the freezer to another Maredem owner, M. Sgt. Narvaez Hatcher, who installed it in one of his clubs and — again using service club funds — paid Maredem $13,415 for it.

That, said Bellino, amounted to a $9,000 loss for Higdon's clubs and a $13,415 gain for Maredem.

Republican Whip Joins Opposition

. . . TO JUDGE HAYNSWORTH

Washington (AP) — Senate Republican whip Robert P. Griffin openly joined the opposition to Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. Wednesday, dealing a severe blow to the Supreme Court nomination.

The White House said, however, that President Nixon's support of Haynsworth does not rest on any Senate head count but on the President's faith in the judge's integrity and background.

Ronald L. Ziegler, press secretary, said Nixon still believes the nomination wiuld move out of the Senate Judiciary Committee and will be confirmed on the floor.

In the Senate, Griffin's declaration sent shock waves along both sides of the aisle and led to Judiciary Committee postponement until Thursday of any action in the case.

"It is our hope that the matter will be faced up to and disposed of one way or the other," said Majority leader Mike Mansfield.

Griffin's move prompted at least one other influential Republican senator to join the opposition and caused a Democratic leader to comment that there now is "serious question" that Haynsworth could be confirmed.

Maine's Margaret Chase Smith, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, said in a floor speech she opposes Haynsworth on the basis of his business dealings and decisions while a member of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals since 1957.

She said Republican opposition to the nomination in the Senate is much greater "than is generally realized."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the assistant Democratic leader, said there is "serious question" of Haynsworth receiving sufficient support for confirmation.

Nebraska 4-H Delegates Named

Four Nebraska 4-H'ers will meet other outstanding club members from the United States and abroad at the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C., April 19-24 it was announced this week.

The Nebraska delegates are Janet Libal of Lexington, Marlene Timmermann of Papillion, Calvin Williams of Rushville and Don Timm of Lyons.

They have been chosen for their ability to represent the state's 39,000 4-H members, their willingness to participate actively in the conference program and "for anticipated meaningful follow-up in their respective communities and counties," according to Louie Rudman, associate state 4-H leader.

One of the principal purposes of the conference is to explore major issues affecting 4-H in the future, as well as to study the many issues facing all youth today.

While in Washington, the delegates will form consultation groups, each group studying facts, suggesting new approaches and formulating recommendations.

The conference is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and land grant universities, cooperating with the National 4-H Foundation.

An ag education major at the university, Don Timm has been in 4-H for 10 years. Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Timm Jr. of Lyons.

A Rushville youth, Calvin Williams, 18, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williams. He is a freshman at NU majoring in agronomy.

No Federal Aid To Go To Project In South Omaha

Omaha (AP) — A proposed South Omaha urban renewal project has been rejected for federal aid by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, Mayor Eugene Leahy said.

"Renewal is more desperately needed in other areas populated by minority groups than in the South Omaha district," a HUD official said in a letter to Leahy.

The Legislature passed a bill authorizing Omaha to construct, with the help of federal funds, a park, industrial park, apartments, revamped business districts and other improvements in South Omaha.

Parents Learn Omaha Marine Dies In Vietnam

Omaha (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Duane Cole of Omaha said Wednesday they had been notified of the death of a son in Vietnam.

He was Marine Pfc. Muril Steven Cole, 19, who officials said had been on patrol in Phua Phien province when accidentally killed by fire from allied forces Oct. 1.

The Omaha native attended elementary school in Carter Lake, Iowa, and high school in Liberty, Mo.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by two brothers and a sister.

Peru State Plans To Show Series Of Art Sketches

Peru — Sketches by Peru State College graduates between the years 1932 and 1964 will be displayed in the Diddel exhibition court of the Jindra Fine Arts Center through Oct. 15, according to Leland Sherwood, associate professor of art.

The works are those of students of Miss Norma L. Diddel of Denver, professor emeritus of art at Peru State. Miss Diddel contacted former art students and asked that they submit sketches for the homecoming exhibit. Homecoming at Peru State is Saturday.

Peru State College Gets Scholarships

Peru (UPI) — Funds for seven additional $200 scholarships will be provided Peru State College students from investment of a bequest of the late Charles E. Andrews of Phillips, Neb., a 1914 Peru State graduate.

The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of need, scholarship, character and recommendation of school officials.

83-Year-Old 'Doc' Not Slowed Down

. . . RETIREMENT GIVES HIM MORE TIME

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Falls City — One place you won't find Dr. J. C. Gillispie these days is behind a stethoscope.

Too ancient, he believes, at 83. So look instead on the golf course or in his young-man-size garden or — more on this later — in his 40-foot-high goose blind.

Doc had scarcely blown out the candles jointly commemorating his July 1 birthday and retirement when he was off on a two-month walleye safari in Minnesota. Just back, he's gallivanting around the golf course like one of his 13 grandkids.

"I got away from golf for 10 years till I bought a cart this summer," said the native of adjacent Brown County, Kan. "But I was one of the fellows who brought the sport to Falls City way back when. No country club in those days — we played in a cow pasture."

That followed by only a few years his 1910 graduation from the University of Illinois Medical College, then eight years' practice at Wheaton, Ill., and at his hometown Reserve, Kan. By the time he'd hung out his Falls City shingle, he had swapped a horse and buggy for "a second-hand Ford" and was well started on delivering some 2,500 babies.

Several of the Gillispie OB's are among the would-be patients still ringing Doc's doorbell in the hopes he'll reconsider his retirement. Mostly they get a pleasant smile and solid advice based on his 60 years' practice.

"I tell folks to keep busy both mentally and physically, like maybe working up a good sweat in the garden," said the oldster. "Sometimes I suggest quitting cigarettes, like I did 30 years ago myself before there was much talk about tobacco evils."

The high-up goose blind? Topping a windmill tower on his 102-acre farm just across the Missouri, it's part of his electrically-heated secret ("I checked out the height with a game warden.") for several day's bag limits each season. Nearby is the garden, the hand-hoed delight of his summer days-off.

There were 56 wedding anniversaries before Doc lost his wife, Rose, last April. A daughter and her family, the Dale Schaffers of Springfield, Ohio, have since moved to Falls City. Other children include Joe of Lincoln, J. C. Jr. of Alexandria, Minn., and Mrs. Mary Jane Lang of Palos Verdes Estate, Calif.

The sole survivor from a family of 12, Dr. Gillispie admits that his own prescriptions deserve little of the credit. In fact, he's probably his own worst patient.

"I've told so many persons they should have a physical checkup every year," he declared. "But me? Well, I've felt so good I've never had one in my whole life."

Food Stamps Said Bought By 40% Of Nebraskans Receiving Welfare

Nearly four in ten Nebraskans on public assistance participate in the food stamp program, a State Welfare Department spokesman said Wednesday.

Latest available figures show 12,214 persons on welfare use the assistance stamps to increase their food-buying power.

Additionally, 8,317 low-income persons are members of the program.

Total assistance through the U.S. Department of Agriculture program amounted to over $400,000 for the state in August, including $139,000 paid on bonus coupons.

Harold McGrew, the Welfare Department's food stamp administrator, said the food assistance program increases the food-buying power of low-income persons by approximately one-third, on the average.

However, the "bonus stamps" depend upon the income of the family.

For example, a family of four with a monthly income of $70 or less can purchase $66 worth of stamps for $26.

The same-sized family with a $270-$300 income would pay $80 for $104 worth of stamps, he said.

100% Coverage Goal

McGrew said 80 of the 93 counties have now adopted the food stamp program, but the department's goal is 100% coverage.

"Every county has families eligible for the federal program," he added.

While 38% of the state's public assistance recipients are now in the food stamp program, McGrew believes the number will increase "as people are educated on its benefits."

The stamps are spendable like money for food purchases in any grocery store.

State Would Lose Influence In Direct Presidential Vote

If direct presidential elections are substituted for the present Electoral College system, Nebraska will lose 20% of its electoral power, according to the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.

In its newsletter, "The Midland View," the organization said that Nebraska, under the present system, has .93% of the vote, whereas it would only have .73% of the popular vote.

Although the direct vote proposition has passed the House, the Senate has yet to act. The newsletter suggested that the bill will face tougher opposition there, and that the required ratification by three-fourths of the states would be harder still.

The federation proposed a district plan it said would draw greater support. Under the district plan, a presidential candidate would win one electoral vote for each congressional district he carried, plus two for each state he won.

The federation's reasoning was that, since 13 state legislatures can block any electoral reform, a direct vote proposal which would increase political power for 15 states and diminish the power of 35 would be less likely to win ratification that a less-drastic district plan.

Home Economist Barbara Tucek Will Be Honored

A Nebraska extension home economist, Mrs. Barbara Tucek of Columbus, will receive a distinguished service award at the annual meeting of the National Association of Extension Home Economics this month.

BARBARA TUCEK

To Get Award

The presentation will be made at a recognition breakfast Oct. 22 in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Tucek, an extension home economist for 14 years, is one of a team of home economists serving the four-county area of Colfax, Butler, Platte and Polk Counties. She has been active in 4-H leadership and has conducted adult programs in home furnishings and home management.

She is the daughter of the late Dr. James Allen and Mrs. Doris Allen of Tekamah.

Hospital Meet Slated

Omaha — The Nebraska Hospital Association's Council on Hospital Auxiliaries will hold its annual convention Oct. 16 in conjunction with the annual convention of the hospital association.

Meeting Scheduled

Kearney (UPI) — A joint meeting of the Nebraska Ornithologists Union and the Nebraska chapter of the Wildlife Society will be held at Kearney State College Saturday.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It comes as no shock to anyone that the unemployment rate has inched up to 4 per cent. The big question is what, if anything, is to be done about it. Of considerable concern is an administration attitude of inevitability to an unemployment rate of even much more than 4 per cent.

Just how much unemployment the Nixon administration would accept without alarm is unknown but indications are that it would see nothing wrong with a 6 per cent rate, perhaps even 7 per cent. It is unfortunate, it seems, that top government officials should describe a 4 per cent rate as acceptable, as did Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy in an appearance before Congress this week.

The thinking of the administration is that the nation has to curtail inflation. In the process, it is considered likely that unemployment will rise and that this is simply a part of the price that must be paid for bringing the economy under control.

But all of this is said by men who sit in Washington with big paying jobs and large personal fortunes behind them. It is said by men who eat well every day, live in the finest accomodations and never know a single want.

It is said by men whose children attend the finest schools and whose families get the best possible medical attention. It is said by men who enjoy considerable travel, fine entertainment and all the other luxuries of life.

To the unemployed man, it is never acceptable to be without a job. The hard-bitten might say that anyone who wants a job can get one but this is neither true nor the entire story.

The untrained and uneducated cannot always get a job. Secondly, economists know that many who want to work and do work are employed at starvation wages.

It may be practical to assume that some unemployment will accompany a braking economy but it is certainly not acceptable. It may be a problem for which we have no answer but not one for which we should not seek an answer.

Where employment is wanted, unemployment never can be considered acceptable. It is wrong for us as a nation to adopt any other philosophy.

It is wrong for people to adopt the attitude that a little bit of something wrong is all right. A little bit of crime is wrong, a little bit of discrimination is wrong and a little bit of human indignity is wrong.

There is no level of acceptance for these things and to consider it any other way is to lay the groundwork for a state of apathy and indifference that would be our ultimate undoing. We cannot condition ourselves to the acceptance of certain degrees of human suffering and want without cultivating a tremendous threat to our society.

The position of the administration in the matter of unemployment demonstrates an alarming callousness — a callousness which has many people concerned over the matter of civil rights at this time. It is an attitude which is causing more and more people to wonder if the Nixon administration really intends to tackle the nation's domestic problems.

What would have been the status of this nation if, in the past, men had accepted the existing state of affairs as inevitable? We would have no democracy, for one thing, because the English colonialism certainly looked formidable to our founding fathers.

We would have had no progress in industry, in medicine and in the settlement of our nation. Certainly, we would never have landed men on the moon nor be proposing the flight of commercial airplanes at speeds of 1,600 miles per hour.

We must admit the fact of unemployment, of course, but we are dead wrong in not dedicating ourselves to doing something about it. Even if we fail, we have to try and try again.

Mahatma Gandhi's Dream Lost To India For All Time

NEW DELHI — Mahatma Gandhi is truly dead. His spirit has been extinguished in India, 100 years after he was born and two decades after he was assassinated by a religious fanatic. Gandhi's life was a dream, a dream of a proud, a tolerant and a gentle India. And it has taken his heirs 22 years to administer the coup de grace, ironically during his centenary year.

During these 12 months, Gandhi's dream has exploded into a nightmare of religious hate, slaughter and a sordid scramble for power in which the Mahatma's ideals of truth and humility have had no place. India has spent millions of rupees this year to convince herself and the world that the Mahatma's spirit still lives; or perhaps simply to enhance the prestige of a privileged elite.

A small fortune has gone on publicity abroad, and in Delhi a big exhibition on the Mahatma's life and work was opened Oct. 1, a last and desperate attempt to cling to the dream.

And yet the dream escapes them. Adorning the walls of this $1.4 million exhibition, one of Gandhi's quotations reads: "Let these lines serve as a warning to those who want to honour me by erecting statues or having portraits of my figure that I heartily dislike these exhibitions."

Almost 100 yards away from this exhibition of Gandhi's portraits, statues and writings stands a squatter village of the people to whom Gandhi dedicated his life: the poor, the wretched and the outcasts of Indian society.

His plea for religious tolerance, non-violence and humility has been mouthed over and over again by politicians, bigots and a few urban idealists who do not know how to put the Mahatma's teachings into practice.

They have paid lip service to his secular ideals, extolled his humanity in air-conditioned auditoriums in the capital, and more than once recalled how the lone figure faced the mobs to halt a holocaust of religious killings during the partition of Bengal.

But they remained in the capital, still talking of secularism and tolerance, when Hindus and Muslims slaughtered each other in September in Gandhi's birthstate, Gujarat. And when it was all over, after nearly 1,000 people had died and after the army was firmly in control, Indian leaders began to flock to the state capital to express their regrets that the tragedy should have spoiled the centenary year celebrations.

They are now back in the capital, preaching Gandhism to the world and to an urban intelligentsia. No one, however, is willing to forsake the lure of Delhi and the seat of power to follow the lonely path that Gandhi trod two decades ago. And so the dream escapes.

'Play It Again, Gamal'

U.S. Guard Down

This is an age when it seems impossible for a strong nation to guard against all threats to its security. The great powers are reaching agreement on a ban on nuclear armaments in outer space and just lately, denuclearization of the ocean floor. These are steps which, hopefully, will precede agreement on general disarmament.

Should that ever occur, the elaborate systems the super-powers are building to defend against nuclear attack by the enemy, the systems helping to edge countries toward national bankruptcy, will no longer be needed.

It is startling, then, to realize that in the meantime it may be in the realm of possibility that so mundane a thing as a low-flying wave of manned bombers might be able to penetrate U.S. coastal defense warning devices, as witnessed by the Cuban fighter that plunked down next to the President's jet at Homestead Air Force Base in Florida last Sunday.

U.S. fighter planes did not scramble to intercept, or at least identify, the Cuban defector because his aircraft occasioned only one blip on ground radar. Flying at 30 to 40 feet above water, the Cuban popped up just once to get his bearings and was picked up, only to be lost. Embarrassed Air Force spokesmen said a whooping crane, a flock of geese or atmospheric phenomena could cause a similar signal.

Our guard was down, it was explained, because two of three special Air Force radar picket planes designed to guard against low-level penetration had been grounded for budgetary reasons two days before the incident. This type of slip-up concerns us, and gives rise to the thought that if somebody really wants to clobber somebody, he'll get clobbered.

The Politics Of Vietnam

One aspect of the Vietnam war which is not discussed much is its possible political influence in the U.S. It is possible that the Vietnam war could create a major realignment of political forces in the nation, changing long-time voting habits of the American people.

It is an issue on which rank-and-file voters may well cross party lines and confuse the political alliances of long historic standing. Obviously, feelings on the war are not settled according to party affiliation.

The labor movement in the nation supports President Nixon in his Vietnam policy, a unique position for it. The Democratic presidential nominee in 1968, former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, supports Nixon in the case of Vietnam.

In Congress, there are Republicans who oppose the President and Democrats who do the same, choosing to ignore the titular head of their party.

One senses in all the discussion about Vietnam a continued dominance of that thinking which says we should end the war as soon as possible, but with honor. And if Nixon would be forced to end things without that honor, it could give him the permanent allegiance of millions of people disgusted with the outspoken critics of the war.

Some consider the war a political threat to the President. Certainly, it is a threat but it also is a possible asset. If we would default in Vietnam because of disunity at home, it is highly doubtful that Nixon would be held responsible for it. Vietnam remains a major political issue but also a most unpredictable one.

Russian Navy Threatening U.S. Supremacy; Topheaviness Of Leadership Partly To Blame

WASHINGTON — Off the Atlantic coast, where the Continental Shelf ends and the ocean floor abruptly plummets, the waters are not quiet. U.S. Navy prowlers steam on set courses, and aboard them, trained men sit in soundproof rooms and wait for their listening devices to pick up messages from the deep.

The answer, a chattering pattern of pings, comes with ominous regularity. Everywhere on the Seven Seas—the waters we so confidently dominated for six decades — our Navy can locate sleek, nuclear-powered Soviet submarines.

From the noise charateristics of the lurking subs, flashed to a U.S. naval base and run through a computer, we are able to identify each sub. The game of hide-and-seek is relentless but professionally calm. Upon occasion, an American destroyer will play a recording of the "Volga Boatman" on the sound system for the benefit of the Russians beneath the waters.

In the 25 years since World War II, the Russians have constructed a first-class navy. Not only under the seas but on the surface, their fleet is now a match for the proud U.S. fleet. Cruisers, destroyers and helicopter carriers cruise the major waterways of the world, flying the hammer and sickle from their masts.

It doesn't take an electronics expert to read the message: Russia is taking a claim to preeminence on the high seas.

In late August, 63 Soviet vessels—the biggest Red fleet ever assembled outside home waters—began maneuvers near the coast of Israel. About the same time, the Russian navy boldly steamed down the East Coast of the United States, and Soviet sailors took their first shore leave in the arms of the warm-eyed girls of Havana. The Castro brothers, Fidel and Raul, posed happily in their rumpled green fatigues with the Russians in their starched white uniforms.

At Port Said, the northern terminus of the Suez Canal, Russian ships are constantly on station to boost the morale of their Arab allies. Soviet ships also make regular ports of call at Alexandria, Egypt, and at Latakia and Tartus, Syria. The Russians are even negotiating to take over the British naval base on the Mediterranean island of Malta.

Soviet gains on the seas, however, can be attributed as much to our failings as to their achievements. For while Russia has hoisted its ensign around the world, the U.S. Navy has suffered a series of practical and political disasters.

More than 70 have been documented, ranging from the loss of the nuclear submarines Thresher and Scorpion to the disastrous accidents aboard the carriers Forrestal and Enterprise. The latest: the destroyer Frank E. Evans was sliced in two by an Australian carrier during exercises in the South China Sea with the loss if 73 U.S. seamen. A naval inquiry placed the primary blame upon the American ship.

The admirals have treated their men almost as badly as their ships. In 1967, Lt. Cmdr. Marc Arnheiter, because of his aggressiveness in Vietnam waters, upset some crew members aboard the picket ship Vance. He was given a hasty summary dismissal. Capt. Richard Alexander, commander of the battleship New Jersey, felt Arnheiter had received a raw deal. He put his career on the line and protested to the secretary of the Navy. Although one of the Navy's most promising officers, Alexander was immediately transferred to a desk job in the Boston Navy Yard.

Through decades of gunboat diplomacy, two world wars and a host of small crises, the Navy's reputation went virtually unblemished. Now, however, with the Russians challenging us for supremacy of the oceans, there is strong evidence of dry rot in the Navy's timbers.

To scrape away the barnacles and find out what is really wrong with the Navy, this column talked to Navy personnel of all ranks. Their general answer: the Navy is suffering from a leadership crisis.

Desk-bound admirals at the Pentagon have put loyalty to each other above loyalty to the Navy and the nation. Many of them still live in the era of battleships, and follow the rules of the admirals' club, a closed clique of senior officers who band together to keep their gold braid untarnished.

Patchwork Prairie Country

Sundays come and go on the farm just as they do in the city, except a farm family must be home at chore-time if they decide to do something a bit different over the week-end.

Last Sunday we chose to go to Abilene, Kansas, to spend some time viewing the Eisenhower Center including the beautiful buildings of the center and the family home.

After the death of General Eisenhower's mother in 1946, it was given to the Eisenhower Foundation by her sons on the condition that it be preserved without change and would always be open to the public without charge.

My sister and I stood a few moments to observe the small wicker sewing basket on a stand that held a piece of printed material, needle and tape measure as if some patchwork quilt were in the making when she put her handiwork to the side for the last time.

After raising two boys and a daughter, my sister remarked at the activity six little boys must have made as their echoes of laughter rang down the hall of the family home . . . not elaborate and pretentious but typical of most family homes in America.

The Place of Meditation which is the building for the final resting place of Dwight Eisenhower arouses another different emotion as do his mementoes of great decisions during the allied invasion of Europe on D-Day.

An author whom I have forgotten once said, "Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime, and in departing leave behind us footprints in the sands of time."

Eisenhower made his, as did Columbus. I always think of old Christopher Columbus about this time for we observed his birthday in school and were reminded of the challenges of his day. Neither man knew his destiny and they were so different, yet no man will forget their contribution to the world of history.

My footprints will not be so deep and great as these men so perhaps I will have to revert to the saying of Eric Hoffer who said simply we need the plodders, too. Well, I will be one of those for I have certainly done my share of plodding. Yet I know I would be unhappy if I did not have some task to do every day, however menial it may seem to those of the jet set or the playboys of the gambling casinos.

It did not take us long to find our work shoes and fit back into the routine of the farm after returning home from the short trip. The tasks were the same as before we left, the work in the days ahead was still waiting for us and we were not in the doldrums because we were back home. Home always looks good and the easy chair seems so extra comfortable.

The next morning it was good to see the sun rising over the familiar roof of our barn, to hear the cattle call from the pasture and see the cats waiting to be fed their breakfast.

Milo harvest is before us so there is the work of getting the combine in shape again, putting up the elevators and checking the fields.

The last few days though somewhat dry and warm are the kind of days we need for the drying of the corn and milo. Also the young wheat plants are in need of moisture. We are betwixt and between and perhaps cannot be satisfied all of the time with the ideal elements although this year we have just experienced has come very nearly being perfect. Who could ask for more?

Coffee Houses

Lincoln, Neb.

Why should Lincoln have another coffee house? What are they trying to prove by saying they want to "stimulate academic conversation"? To my way of thinking, this is the biggest hoax ever perpetrated on the city of Lincoln!

The "people" who meet there have quite a lot of hang-ups, including drugs. This is like an underground grapevine because they know exactly whom to contact, when and where.

The people who think the church is a basis for the coffee house must be very uninformed. If kids resent the church, as it stands, and it is the basis for the coffee house, then they will resent it even more!

How do I know all this? I am the 17-year-old, pregnant wife of a young man recently sentenced for his second offense for possession of "grass." He frequented a coffee house along with many people who "sold."

Why do we need more places to ruin more young people's lives? Why do they need to start on 14-year-olds?

Editorial Points

Lincoln, Neb.

A Star editorial for October 7 entitled "What Protesters Forget," contains a number of significant errors.

You say: " . . there is no question that hostilities increased from (the time of our violation of the Geneva accords of 1954) in direct proportion to North Vietnamese aggression against the south." There is a great deal of question about just that point. Many critics of the war claim, accurately, that the Viet Cong revolt was primarily an indigenous effort to overthrow the oppressive Diem regime. North Vietnamese regulars did not come into South Vietnam in significant numbers until later 1965, and then they came in response to our country's escalation of the war.

You say: "With U.S. withdrawal, in fact, there would likely be a real blood bath between communists from the north and the South Vietnam military and government." This assumes that the retainers of the Thieu-Ky government are not smart enough to know that they need the U.S. military presence to prop up their unpopular regime and that they would not be smart enough to get out of the country as the U.S. withdrew. These are implausible assumptions.

You can also assume that there would not be a blood bath if all North Vietnamese troops withdrew. Do you mean that the U.S. and the Thieu regime would not then complete their "pacification" of South Vietnam by getting rid of the remaining Viet Cong and their sympathizers.

The Star editorial is, alas, an ignorant and thoughtless defense of the war.

The Homosexual

Lincoln, Neb.

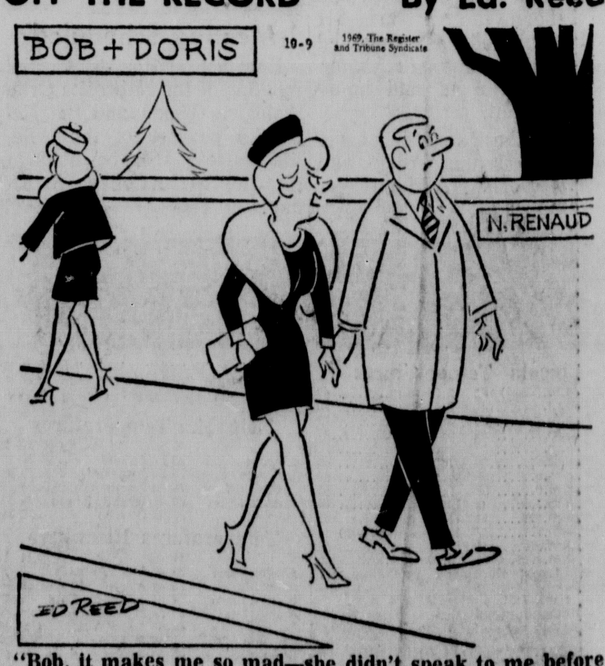

There is a social injustice that as yet has not become of much concern to the general public, but I believe it should be. The injustice is the persecution of homosexuals.

In the state of Nebraska, homosexual acts even between consenting adults is punishable by up to 20 years imprisonment. If sexual acts, whether heterosexual or homosexual, do not involve minors and do not involve force and do not harm anyone, they should be the concern of the persons involved and their own consciences rather than of the state and its laws. To legislate in this area is to invade an individual's right of privacy.

If anyone is interested in learning more about homosexuality or in working to improve the social, legal and economic situation of the homosexual in our society, he is urged to contact The Lincoln-Omaha Council on Religion and the Homosexual, Box 2323, Station B, Lincoln, Nebraska.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"Bob, it makes me so mad—she didn't speak to me before I had a chance not to speak to her."

Effects Of Flood Plains Discussed At Hearing

At a hearing conducted by the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Wednesday night, residents of Lincoln and Lancaster County were given an opportunity to discuss the purpose and effects of proposed flood plain zoning.

Under the flood plain program, local authorities, in cooperation with state and federal governments, discourage the use of land subject to flooding for business and residential buildings.

Under the provisions of state law, the commission has delineated the flood plain areas and will legally establish the flood plain by order.

At the hearing, persons owning land within flood plain areas were presented with data by the state and given an opportunity to question or comment on flood outlines.

Final designation on the flood plains will not come until next January.

Records of the public hearing will be kept open until Nov. 15, and until then, any landowner in the affected areas may submit a report which he thinks should affect the final zoning, the audience was told.

Preventing the installation of structures which limit channel capacity and increase flood heights is one of the primary objectives of the flood plain regulations.

The zoning program also seeks to protect unwary land and home buyers against victimization brought about by purchase of property in a high flood area, it was noted.

The question was raised whether a building destroyed by fire or other means existing in a flood plain could be rebuilt under the zoning laws.

Warren Fairchild, secretary of the commission, noted that in this case such a construction, or any which exceeded a 50% change or addition, could proceed upon application and issuance of a permit from the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

Areas in Lancaster County designated as flood plain areas include property surrounding Salt Creek, Haines Branch, Beal Slough, Antelope Creek, Dead Man's Run, Middle Creek, Little Salt Creek, Oak Creek and Stevens Creek.

An area designated as a flood plain area is one in which a flood is expected to occur once every 100 years on the average, or has a one per cent chance of occurring in any one year.

Singer Agrees To Pay Support For Fan's Child

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) — Soul singer James Brown has agreed to pay $500 a month for 20 years to a boy born to the former president of his Sacramento fan club.

Settlement of the paternity suit against Brown was announced in Superior Court

He had been accused by Miss Mary Brown, 20, no relation, of fathering 1-year-old Michael Deon Brown in a San Francisco area motel last year.

Brown specified that he still denies fathering the child, and the hearing was called off with no judgment either way.

The settlement provides that the support for Michael can be revised in later years if needed. Brown also agreed to pay Miss Brown's lawyers $32,700 in fees and costs.

MAYNARD JACKSON

First Negro Elected To Atlanta Post

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Attorney Maynard Jackson, who shattered racial patterns to become the first Negro to win this city's second highest office, hailed his victory Wednesday as "the beginning of a new day for Atlanta."

Looking relaxed and fresh after two months of campaigning and three hours sleep, Jackson told his first news conference as vice mayor-elect: "This is a new city that has said we want to have new ideas. I'm not going to let the people of this city down."

The 31-year-old fifth generation Georgian spoke with the convincing vigor that has been a trademark since he entered the political arena less than two years ago.

Tuesday night Jackson defeated Milton Farris, a veteran of 18 years on Atlanta's Board of Aldermen, by more than 18,000 votes. The unofficial count was 54,455 to 36,299.

Energetic, articulate, poised and determined, Jackson campaigned as "a man for all people," resisting what he described as tremendous pressure to endorse another Negro, Dr. Horace E. Tate, for mayor.

Jackson carried 96% of the Negro votes cast. Tate barely managed 50%. The city is nearly half black.

Future Lincoln Power Needs Eyed

Seeking to make sure Lincoln will have an adequate power supply in the mid-1970's, the Power Advisory Board's power supply committee Wednesday recommended that the board begin investigating future sources of power that would be available at that time.

Robert Peterson, committee chairman, said the committee believes that power might be available from three sources:

—participation with Consumers Public Power District in the second phase of the Brownville nuclear plant project.

—construction or purchase of the city's own fossil-fueled plant.

—establishment of a cooperative agreement with the Omaha Public Power District.

Peterson said in a written report to Board Chairman R. E. Campbell that the committee feels that "many factors will no doubt indicate the choice of participating with Consumers as the most feasible next-step" for the future needs of Lincoln.

The city has agreed to use part of the power that will be generated at the nuclear plant now under construction near Brownsville.

The committee also recommended that Campbell contact the Bureau of Reclamation for power as well as contacting the other possible sources as to what their position on supplying power would be.

Campbell said he hopes the city can get on the priority list of the Bureau of Reclamation for additional power.

Board member John Haessler told board members that negotiations with the Norris Public Power District regarding an exchange of customers in order to revise service areas for both the Lincoln Electric System and Norris should be completed by Jan. 1.

A revised plan changing the service area boundaries to the west, south, and east of the city was unveiled during the meeting.

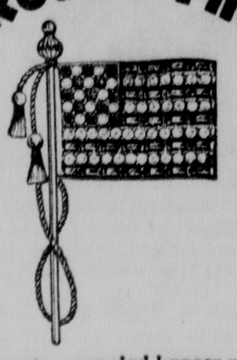

The board also reaffirmed its earlier recommendation that purchase negotiations for the K St. station should be continued with the Nebraska Public Power System (NPPS).

City Atty. Norman Krivosha pointed out that it will be necessary for the city to acquire the station to supply steam heat to its present customers in 1972. NPPS has indicated that it plans to discontinue the steam heat service by that year.

"The service could likely not be duplicated by the end of 1971 through other facilities," Krivosha said.

Someone told me there is actually a law against swearing. True? —Foul Mouth, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: True. State Statute 28.936 reads: "Whoever, being of the age of fourteen years and upward, profanely curses or damns, or profanely swears by the name of God, Jesus Christ or the Holy Ghost, shall be fined in a sum of not exceeding one dollar nor less than twenty five cents for each offense." The conviction of a 16-year-old youth under this section was sustained. In case those under 14 years think they are exempt, City Ordinance 9.52.010 states it shall be unlawful for anyone ". . . to . . . curse, swear, or use obscene or indecent language."

We have been house hunting recently and therefore very observant of signs in our search. What are the signs in so many windows that say "Block Mother"? —R.W.G., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: There are about 3,000 block mothers across Lincoln, so no wonder you observed these signs. The signs are provided by elementary school Parent Teacher Associations to homes that could be available for small children as they go to and from school in case the child needs assistance.

The program was designed to help in any serious emergency such as when the child gets hurt, lost, or is threatened by an adult. The signs are furnished by the Lincoln Jaycees for the third year.

Why does the Cox Nursing Home at 320 North 40th St., Omaha, require their employes (former patients of state homes at Norfolk and Beatrice) to sign a paper to work any hours? I thought slavery was abolished. —Interested, Atkinson

ACTION LINE: You are correct . . . slavery was abolished years ago and it has not been revived in Omaha. Neil Hamm, rehabilitation unit supervisor at the Beatrice State Home, says that patients paroled to the Cox Care Home (correct name) do not sign any paper such as you describe. The persons to whom you refer as "former patients" are actually "paroled patients" — that is, they are still under the supervision and care of the Beatrice State Home. A counselor from the Beatrice facility frequently visits each of the patients paroled to the Cox Home, checking on progress and welfare. Because the paroled patients as part of the rehabilitation program still need supervision (money handling, etc.) toward learning responsibility they are confined to the home where they live, eat and work.

Mrs. Nancy Talbert, Cox Care Home manager, says the State Department checks regularly to be sure patients are not being forced to work longer hours than they are capable of and that the paroled patients are paid in accordance with the wage law for the handicapped. The hours and duties of the patients then are carefully supervised by the state homes which specifically prohibit split shift assignments. Hamm explains that because the Cox Home patients require 24-hour care, seven days a week, the weekend work is on a rotating basis among the patients.

The rehabilitation program has been in effect for 25 years and has been termed highly successful by Mrs. Talbert, with many paroled patients ultimately released from the state homes to lead private lives. The restrictions and supervision imposed on the patients during their period of parole are strictly for their own protection and benefit, Hamm summarizes.

I want to know why the road on the east and north sides of the old Lincoln Air Base is marked with "No Trespassing" signs. The road is policed and on occasion people have been stopped from using this route which I think is short and most convenient to reach Lincoln. —Walter Koers, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The road to which you refer is not a public road—it is a service road under the jurisdiction of the Lincoln Airport Authority, reports the authority's executive director Roland Harr. The road was built as a temporary measure until Highway 34 was cut through that area and is strictly for the use of airport personnel. It is not designed for high speed traffic. The road is hazardous in bad weather, says Harr, and some airport workers even avoid it during the winter.

The Lincoln Police Dept. became alarmed about the large number of accidents on the road, and advised the authority to close it to public use. Even after the road was closed to the public, there were four fatalities on it. Harr says it is doubtful the road is shorter and more convenient than Highway 34 which has higher speed limits and fewer and less steep curves. Best advice from ACTION LINE. Don't use the road.

World Field Research of New York said they would refund the registration fee of $5 if I was not completely satisfied after testing some products for them. I was not satisfied, but I can't get my money.—Sucker, Milburn

Lindsay Says He's Closing In On Procaccino

New York (AP) — A month before election, Mayor John V. Lindsay says he is still behind in his bid for a second term, but claims to be gaining.

The only objective poll shows Lindsay narrowly ahead of Democrat Mario Procaccino, with Republican-Conservative John Marchi trailing.

Procaccino predicts he will win by 300,000 votes. Marchi's aides say he is ahead of Lindsay now and will overtake Procaccino by Nov. 4.

The campaign has smashed New York's already badly splintered Republican and Democratic Parties, and widened cracks in the two minor parties, Liberal and Conservative.

Upset

Lindsay's upset in the June GOP primary by the practically unknown Marchi seemed to have been a personal defeat. His running mates both won.

Working against Lindsay were a February blizzard that buried the city in snow, a sanitation strike that piled the streets with garbage, a teachers strike that stirred Negro-Jewish hostility, burgeoning welfare rolls, a frightful narcotics and crime problem and a housing shortage with soaring rents.

Lindsay stayed in the race as candidate of the Liberal Party, a predominantly Jewish alliance of intellectuals and aging labor leaders, whose power as a swing political force has been waning. Its nomination of Lindsay caused a serious split in its ranks.

After the primary, a poll taken by Oliver Quayle for NBC News showed Procaccino leading with 35%, Lindsay 30, Marchi 19 and 16 undecided.

Last week, NBC announced that a second Quayle poll, taken in the late September, showed Lindsay 35%, Procaccino 33, Marchi 12, and a whopping 20% undecided.

Hopes For 'Fusion'

The 47-year-old Lindsay, a moderately wealthy Yale man, is hoping for the same "fusion" support of Republicans, Liberals, Democrats and independents that won for him narrowly in 1965. He becam the first GOP mayor in 20 years in a city that is 7-2 Democratic.

"We've been closing the gap since Labor Day, but we still think we're behind Procaccino," said Lindsay's campaign manager, Richard Aurelio, borrwed from the staff of New York Republican's biggest vote-getter, Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Neglect Of Personal Hygiene Irritating

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "Can't you write more often on the need for older people to watch personal hygiene? Dad, 78, came to live with us last year. He was unhappy living alone and didn't eat properly, and we need the $40 weekly he pays to live in our guest room. But he smells — won't take a bath unless we practically put him in the tub and keeps wearing the same underwear and socks, and thinks deodorants are sissy. Are we right in nagging him about this?"

A. — Yes, this is one instance where children should nag their parents. Your father may gripe and complain, but you must convince him your efforts are for his own good. Folks who neglect personal hygiene are usually doomed to loneliness for no one wants to be around them. They are also guilty of impairing the favorable image which elders should present to the world. Most elders who neglect hygiene are exaggerating a tendency they had in earlier years. Others have suffered small strokes which reduce circulation to that part of the brain once concerned with personal hygiene, thus causing indifference about bathing and cleanliness.

Q. — "Do you really believe most old couples think about sex? There was an article in the paper quoting a Dr. E. W. Busse of Duke University who said his studies show 60% of married couples past 65 are sexually active. This is the craziest thing I ever read for my husband and I gave it up years ago and we're only 72 and 74. I asked my twin sister how she felt about it and she said she'd slap Tom's face it he tried anything at their age."

A. — Maybe you're missing something. Current studies show that regular sexual activity persists among most healthy couples past 65. As Cicero said, "Old age is not entirely lacking in sensual pleasure. It may lack great banquets of pleasure, but delight in temperate repasts may still be found. Pleasure's tingling is not so great, yet nature in its wisdom has compensated for this since the yearning for pleasure is not so great."

Q. — "Don't you think it's disgusting the way Nixon is proposing that folks on welfare take job training? My sister, 54, is a widow who has never worked, has a nervous disposition, and needs welfare for support. She's scared to death at the thought of working outside her home and they're telling her she's got to learn some skills and think about taking a job. Is this America or Russia? Don't you agree this wrong?"

A. — If this were Russia you can bet your sister would be out sweeping the streets with a broom, or something similar. I think all reasonably healthy adults on welfare should be required to take training that will fit them for jobs which may make them independent. Even if your sister isn't in the pink of health there are many skills she might learn which would both add to her satisfaction and her self-sufficiency. I don't know about your sister, but some healthy welfare recipients have the mistaken notion that taxpayers owe them a living.

Battlefield Lull Continues In Vietnam

Saigon (AP) — American ground forces reported no contacts with the enemy Wednesday as a battlefield lull continued throughout South Vietnam, the U.S. Command reported.

Headquarters said U.S. helicopter gunships and artillery outfits reported killing 20 North Vietnamese 60 to 75 miles north of Saigon. Air Force B52s flew three missions against suspected enemy targets along the Cambodian border, down from the average of eight missions flown every 24 hours by the heavy bombers.

No American casualties were reported.

Lowland's Flooded

In the northern section of South Vietnam, monsoon rains continued to flood the lowlands around Hue and parts of the ancient imperial capital itself. More than 60 inches of rain — nearly half the average annual precipitation for the area — has been recorded in a week. The rains marked the beginning of the monsoon season that normally drenches the north and central coast daily until April.

Military operations slowed to a crawl on both sides.

Few Flights Reported

U.S. spokesmen said only critical flights were taking off for the north from the big U.S. airfield at Da Nang. All airstrips from Phu Bai, near Hue, to Dong Ha, just below the demilitarized zone, were socked in by the weather.

South Vietnamese headquarters claimed government forces killed 37 enemy troops in two clashes in the Mekong Delta, 50 and 56 miles south of Saigon. Five government soldiers were reported killed and 14 wounded.

It also was announced that the U.S. Navy will transfer 80 river patrol boats to the South Vietnamese navy Friday in the largest single turnover of American naval equipment since the war began.

STORY AT RIGHT

PHOUMA . . . Premier.

Laotian Premier Confident Of More U.S. Aid

Washington (AP) — Prince Souvanna Phouma, prime minister of neutral Laos, expressed confidence Wednesday that President Nixon will provide his country with additional military assistance.

The visiting 68-year-old Laotian leader told a National Press Club luncheon he is sure Nixon "will do what we have requested."

"The President understands the need to protect the neutrality, independence and sovereignty of Laos," he said. The two conferred for 75 minutes Tuesday at the White House.

The prince said the United States will be acting within the terms of the 1962 Geneva agreement which prohibits the introduction of any arms, weapons or war materiel except for the defense of the country.

"The military aid requested from the United States is for the purpose of defending our homeland and not to wage war against our neighbors."

Souvanna Phouma's public address coincided with the release of a white paper by the royal Lao government citing nine attacks by North Vietnamese troops against Lao defenders within the past year.

Australian Said Demented At Time He Fired Mosque

Jerusalem (AP) — An Arab guide and an American student priest testified in court Wednesday that Denis Michael Rohan was demented by religious fanaticism before he set fire to the Al Aksah Mosque in Jerusalem's Old City.

The 28-year-old Australian defendant seemed amused by the idea.

Rohan, said by his defense counsel to have been mentally ill when he tried to burn down the 1,400-year-old mosque, chuckled as the Arab guide testified.

Mounir el Qazaz, an 18-year-old Moslem who shows the mosque area to tourists, said Rohan paid him 1,500 Israeli pounds ($428) to write letters guessing why the Australian came to the Holy City.

Rohan's attorney, Yitzhak Tunik, asked El Qazaz:

"I presume you got the impression that he was . . ." and the lawyer swiveled his finger at his head in a gesture known the world over.

The handsome young prosecution witness laughed and said: "Correct".

Rohan, sitting behind a bullet-proof glass screen, joined in the Arab's mirth.

He was more composed during testimony by an American friend who called him "a very unhappy, miserable boy."

Arthur Jones, who worked and studied Hebrew with Rohan on an Israeli kibbutz earlier in the year said the Australian had spent time in a mental hospital in his homeland.

Commercial Zoning Backed For East O Area

The City-County Planning Commission Wednesday recommended approval for changing to commercial zoning an area along O St. between 66th and 70th.

However, several planning commissioners pointed out that their votes for approval were cast with some reluctance.

Adam Breckenridge, who made the motion to approve changing the zone from A-2 Single Family to G Local Business for the north half of the street, said, "It seems we have no choice in view of a recent decision by the City Council."

The present council recently changed the zoning on the southwest corner of 70th and O Sts. from single family to business use. Earlier councils had turned down business zoning requests for that area.

Planning Director Douglas Brogden had requested the change of zone, saying that the area is no longer suitable for residential development.

Commissioner George Williamson said that if the City Council also approves the commercial zoning for the area, it must realize that traffic problems will probably occur in the future.

Williamson said the city will have to come up with money to solve the problems caused by increased traffic on area streets.

City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger said the present street system would not be adequate to handle traffic once the area is developed for commercial use.

Public Works Director Robert Obering added that once the state widens O St. into a four-lane road, there will be no right-of-way available to widen the street any further for additional traffic lanes or a service road.

Obering explained that further widening of the street would not be possible because the buildings would be too close to the street due to the 20-foot setback requirement of the G Local Business district.

Proposal Rejected

A proposal by Brogden to change the zone of land along 70th between O St. and the new St. Elizabeth Health Center to G Local Business was rejected by the planning commission.

Commissioners said approving that portion of the change of zone request would result in further commercial developments along 70th St. toward A St.

Also denied were requests for G Local Business zoning on the Roy Sankey tract (land bounded by Q, 66th, 63rd and the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks) and on the Taylor tract (land south of O St. between 66th extended and 70th.

Brogden told planning commissioners that it was economically feasible to develop the Sankey tract under the community unit plan for B Two Family use.

However, the city law department in a legal opinion held that the denial of the Sankey rezoning applicaiton for G Local Business would be arbitrary, unreasonable and unenforceable if challenged in the courts.

In other action, the commission recommended approval of a request by Austin Realty for a special permit to develop land in the vicinity of 66th and O Sts. under the community unit plan. Approval was also given to a preliminary plat of Taylor Park East in that area.

Planners Urge Mobile Home Zoning Change

Significant changes in the city's policy on mobile home courts came closer to reality when the City-County Planning Commission Wednesday recommended approval of a zoning change.

Key provision of the ordinance, a result of recommendations made by the Mobile Home Study Committee, is that new mobile home courts be permitted in residential areas providing certain conditions are met.

Planning commissioners agreed with the report of the study committee that mobile home courts should be allowed in residential areas but voted to exclude courts from the A-1 Single Family areas.

Mobile home courts are presently restricted to commercial and industrial areas.

The commissioners also changed the zoning amendment to require that courts meet the minimum space size requirement that conventional homes must meet within a particular district and that the density be computed on a similar basis as community unit plans.

Commissioners settled on the two changes after hearing a number of amendments proposed by commissioners who disagreed with the study committee recommendation on minimum space sizes for a mobile home.

The committee had proposed that there be a minimum space size of 4,000 square feet for mobile homes regardless of the zoning district in which the court would be located.

A motion to also prohibit courts in the A-2 Single Family District was withdrawn after Planning Director Douglas Brogden pointed out that most residential areas of 10 acres or more are available in the single family districts.

Brogden said that nothing is accomplished if courts are excluded also from the A-2 Single Family district."

"If this fails, you are not changing the city's policy from what it was before," the planning director said, noting that the city's present policy "has forced people to live in undesirable areas."

Pen Inmate Pleads Guilty In Stabbing

Richard Lee Bonebrake, a State Penitentiary inmate, pleaded guilty Wednesday in Lancaster District Court on charges in the stabbing of a fellow inmate two weeks ago.

The 19-year-old Marion, Iowa, youth was arraigned earlier in the day in County Court and charged with stabbing with intent to kill, wound or maim in the Sept. 7 attack on James Swift.

After waiving preliminary hearing, Bonebrake appeared before District Court Judge Bartlett Boyles, who deferred sentencing pending further investigation.

Bonebrake was charged after State Patrol criminal division investigators filed a complaint with County Attorney Paul Douglas.

The youth is currently serving a four- to seven-year sentence for the December 1968, shooting of Hebron Police Chief Charles Henning.

Swift, 20, of Omaha, was stabbed in the prison's east cellhouse as prisoners were being locked for the night.

Planes Being Built

Salisbury, Rhodesia (AP) — Local flying fans have formed a company to build the first made-in-Rhodesia aircraft. First the British designed, 17-foot wingspan Taylor Titch planes will be test flown soon. The builders believe they can sell them on a production basis for about 1,600 pounds ($4,480).

Food Stamp Program May Nearly Double

Washington (UPI) — The House Agriculture Committee voted Wednesday to authorize $610 million in spending this year on the food stamp program, nearly double the existing amount.

The committee action, on a 25-4 vote, was aimed at attracting votes for a new farm price support bill from city congressmen, who want more money for food stamps.

The current ceiling on food stamp spending is $340 million. The Senate has approved a three-year authorization, raising the ceiling to $1.25 billion this year, $2 billion in the 1970-71 fiscal year and $2.5 billion in fiscal 1972.

Under the program, poor families can buy stamps and redeem them at stores for food worth more than the price of the stamps.

A spokesman said the committee bill was backed by the Agriculture Department and that House passage was expected within a week.

By restricting food stamp spending authority to one year, the bill's sponsors can include further authorizations in the farm subsidy bill, forcing urban legislators to vote for the farm bill to get an expanded food stamp program.

Hughes Tells Reagan 'No'

Trenton, N.J. (UPI) — Gov. Richard Hughes of New Jersey got a letter from California Gov. Ronald Reagan asking his help in electing a Republican governor in Virgina. Hughes, a Democrat, declined Thursday in a polite note in which he suggested Reagan help elect a Democratic successor for him in New Jersey.

Committee Rejects Postal Corporation Plan

•The New York Times

Washington — President Nixon's proposal to convert the Post Office Department into a public corporation was rejected Wednesday by the House Post Office Committee.

Instead, the committee is expected to draft more limited postal reforms within the present departmental framework.

Rejection of the administration's corporation approach came on a 13-13 vote. Under committee rules, a tie vote loses.

Committee sources attributed defeat of the corporation plan primarily to the vigorous opposition of the postal unions, among the most powerful lobbies on Capitol Hill.

The unions, representing most of the 700,000 postal workers, had protested that a shift of operations to a corporation would deny them direct access to Congress in seeking pay increases.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount promptly called upon the committee to reconsider its stand.

"I am concerned," he said, "that some members of the committee continue to ignore the will of the overwhelming majority of the voters in their own districts, as demonstrated in poll after poll."

Seamen Feared Dead

Nagoya, Japan (UPI) — Twelve South Korean seamen were missing Wednesday after their 1,051-ton freighter, the Dragon, sank about 20 miles northeast of Japan's Cape Shiona. The British freighter Clover Bank reported rescuing eight men. Five Japanese ships are searching the area for other survivors.

Paroles Post To L. Watts

Lloyd Watts of Lincoln, who has been serving as state supervisor of juvenile paroles, was named Wednesday to be state parole administrator.

The appointment was made by the new State Board of Paroles, created by the 1969 Legislature and headed by the Rev. W. C. Ollenburg of Lincoln.

As state parole administrator, Watts will administer and supervise all paroles services under the director of corrections as authorized by LB1307.

Rogers Gets New Welfare Dept. Position

Leroy Rogers has been named administrative assistant to State Welfare Director Harold Strode, it was reported Wednesday.

Rogers, 35, was legal consultant with the Douglas County welfare department for eight years before being named to the newly-created $12,500-a-year state post on Oct. 1.

He received his law degree from Creighton University in 1962. Previously he had worked as an industrial chemist and as a school teacher after receiving a degree in mathematics and chemistry from the University of Indiana.

During the Korean War, he served as a chemical warfare officer and instructor.

Idaho Youth, 19, Is Sentenced On Marijuana Count

A 19-year-old Pocatello, Idaho, youth pleaded guilty Wednesday in Lancaster County Court to possession of marijuana and was sentenced to seven days in the city jail.

Judge Ralph Slocum also included in the sentence a requirement for the youth to attend a drug misuse course.

According to police, the youth was in jail on another charge when he asked that his car be located and brought to police headquarters.

Officers searched the car when it was located and marijuana was found in the trunk, police said.

ETV To Show Proceedings Of State Ed Board

The Nebraska Educational Television Network will air two special programs covering proceedings of the State Board of Education. The special hour-long public affairs programs will be seen Oct. 9 and Oct. 16 at 9 p.m.

Both programs show hearings held at the board meeting Oct. 3. The first shows the formal hearing held on a complaint by Vincent Rotherham, superintendent of Fort Robinson, concerning required tuition payments to local districts.

The second program, scheduled Oct. 16, will present additional discussion on the board's resolution regarding sex education.

Antique Watch Collection To Go On Display Here

An antique watch collection will be displayed Sunday beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the Nebraska State Historical Society Museum.

The display will be part of the Nebraska and South Dakota Jewelers Association Convention to be held this weekend at the Cornhusker Hotel.

The collection of watches, some of which go back to the early 1700s, is the result of many years of saving on the part of jewelers in the two states.

Popular-Election Ratification By Legislatures May Not Be Hurdle

©The New York Times

By WARREN WEAVER JR.

Washington — What had seemed the most serious obstacle to replacing the Electoral College with a popular-vote choice of the president — ratification of the reform plan by 38 state legislatures — may not be so serious after all.

There are already 30 legislatures that appear, according to their leaders, either certain or likely to approve a constitutional amendment embodying the direct election plan if it passes its final congressional test in the Senate.

In six other states, the picture has not crystalized enough for a reading. Six state legislatures are leaning toward opposition to the direct plan, and eight more appear solidly opposed.

Best Current Assay

These are the results of a check of political sentiment in 50 state capitals by The New York Times, representing the best current judgment of more than 200 legislative leaders of both parties and most of the governors.

The survey was conducted to test the validity of the argument that the direct election amendment should not be approved by Congress because there is so much opposition at the state level that it could never be ratified.

President Nixon took this position last February but reversed himself last week.

If the legislative leaders' predictions are correct and backers of direct election were able to win over the undecided legislatures, they would only have to turn around two more states to obtain the necessary three-quarters, or 38 of the 50.

Congressional sponsors of the direct election plan, anticipating Senate approval, have already begun planning a state-by-state campaign for ratification, with the assistance of such organizations as the American Bar Association, the United States Chamber of Commerce and the AFL-CIO.

Opposition to the direct election system appears strongest in the South, the Middle West and the Mountain states. In the first two areas, however, about half the states either favored the direct plan or were neutral.

Under the present system, a presidential candidate who carries a state gets all its electoral votes, however narrow his victory. The candidate with a majority of the electoral vote wins; f no one electoral vote wins; if no one has a majority, the decision is made by members of the House on a one-state, one-vote basis.

High Man Wins

Under the direct election plan, the candidate with the largest popular vote wins, no matter which states he carries or loses. If the top vote-getter falls short of 40% of the national total, he goes into a run-off with his closest competitor.

Of the 50 governors, 19 favor the direct plan and eight oppose it, with the remaining 23 either undecided or not prepared to take a public position. The governors have no official role in the ratification process, but their political influence may be important in some states.

In the sparsely populated Mountain states, only Wyoming was listed as somewhat favorable. Idaho, Montana and Nevada were regarded as somewhat opposed and Colorado and Utah as strongly opposed.

Influence Small

Critics of direct election say it would reduce the political influence of the smaller states, whose electoral vote count, though small, is larger than they would be entitled to on a strict population basis. The counter argument is that their influence is already so small that a cut is not really important.

In the South, the Alabama and South Carolina legislatures were reported to be strongly opposed and those in Mississippi and Virginia somewhat opposed.

In the Middle West, the strongly opposed states were Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

The survey cast considerable doubt on the liklehood of the direct election amendment winning ratification in time to become applicable to the 1972 election. The House-passed amendment sets an effective deadline of Jan. 21, 1971, for the final state ratification to make the plan effective in 1972.

Nineteen of the state legislatures do not have regular sessions scheduled until January 1971 or later, although trying to obtain ratification in a number of states in the first two weeks of a new session would undoubtedly be difficult.

More Time Wanted

Senate sponsors of the direct election plan would like to extend this deadline somewhat, to May or June of 1971, to allow more time to line up states. In the light of Nixon's recent endorsement of the cause, Republican insistence on the early deadline may be relaxed.

New York, New Jersey and Connecticut are among the 10 states whose legislatures are reported as strongly favorable to the reform plan. Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and John Dempsey of Connecticut are known to favor the direct plan, and both gubernatorial candidates in New Jersey have endorsed it.

The traditionalist argument against direct election was typified by State Rep. Clifford B. Hearn Jr., a Delaware Democrat, who said: "If the Electoral College system was good enough for John M. Dickinson and George Read, it's good enough for me." He referred to two Delaware signers of the Constitution.

Some Negro Opposition

In at least two states, Illinois and Pennsylvania, there was evidence that some Negro legislators will oppose the direct plan. Rep. K. Leroy Irvis, majority leader of the Pennsylvania House, admitted his opposition was based on "a very purely selfish reason."

"The Negro people are collected in the North and East in urban areas," Irvis said. "The only way they can have any political clout is through their vote in presidential elections. If by being the balance of power they can swing an election, they have a leverage which popular election removes."

Likewise, the 18 Negroes in the Illinois legislature are likely to vote against the direct election amendment on the ground that it would dilute black political influence within the state.

Opposition to the direct election plan in the Alabama legislature reflects a well-founded suspicion that some of its features were designed to frustrate any further presidential ambitions that Goerge C. Wallace may entertain.

Plurality Lowered

Had the version of the plan approved by the House required a majority of the popular vote for a winner, the entry of a third-party candidate like Wallace could almost insure a run-off in any close election. For this reason, the winning plurality was lowered to 40%.

Reaction to direct election in the South is by no means uniformly hostile, however.

Four states — Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina and Tennessee — were reported somewhat favorable to the reform, and two that were listed as undecided — Georgia and Louisiana — include some active supporters of the plan.

Big Student Population

Taipei (UPI) — One-fourth of Nationalist China's population are students, according to education ministry statistics. There are 3.5 million students out of a total population of 13.6 million. The number of college students has increased 53 times since 1946, the ministry reported. They now total 161,000.

Four Additional Petition Drives For Amendments Are Foreseen

By GARY CLAXTON
Associated Press Writer

There are "fairly solid indications that up to four" additional drives will be launched prior to the 1970 election to place on the ballot by initiative petition proposed constitutional amendments, it was reported Wednesday.

Deputy Secretary of State Allen Beermann said one of the four would involve a move by a group, spearheaded by State Board of Education member Frank Landis of Lincoln, to secure ballot placement of a proposal that would force K-12 school reorganization.

Beermann said he was not at liberty to identify the other specific proposals but said persons had contacted him about the probability of initiative efforts dealing with governmental spending and taxation.

Already filed with the secretary of state were some petitions circulating in connection with Omaha advertising executive A. J. Treutler's drive to place constitutional restrictions on governmental spending.

There had been no indication, Beermann said, of any referendum moves, which would allow voters to second guess the Legislature on measures passed during the recent session.

Beermann's comments came as he released a list of the ballot order of the 15 proposed constitutional amendments for the 1970 general election that emerged from the last session of the Unicameral.

Nebraska law provides that the proposals must appear on the ballot in the order they are received from the governor. If more than one issue is received at the same time, they must be placed on the ballot in the order they were approved by the Legislature.

Beermann said as a general rule "issues appearing near the top of the ballot seem to garner more total votes.

"There are some notable exceptions," he said, "for example, when a constitutional amendment pertains to a tax issue."

But he said unless an issue becomes particularly controversial, many voters apparently tend to tire of reading the list and voting before they reach the bottom of the list.

The last item on the list is the one that would authorize the Legislature to hold annual sessions beginning in 1971.

Also at the tail end of the ballot, No. 13, will be the proposal that would revise the duties of the lieutenant governor.

And listed No. 12 on the ballot will be the proposal that would provide grants of state funds to students in nonpublic schools to help pay their tuition.

"One thing that will be beneficial to the voter in digesting the constitutional amendments on the ballot will be the provisions of LB259," Beermann said.

The measure, recently endorsed by the Legislature, revised election statutes to require printing on the ballot a statement of the effect of a vote for and a vote against any proposal on the ballot, whether submitted by the Legislature or as the result of an initiative or referendum petition.

Beermann said Legislative Council Research Director Jack Rogers had been provided with a ballot placement list and work would soon begin on preparing the wording of the official explanations of the proposals.

The proposals, in order, with the measure that created the proposal and a synopsis of the intent:

No. 1 — LB168; reduces the age of electors in Nebraska to 20 years.

No. 2 — LB459; provides for redistricting of Supreme Court judicial districts after each federal decennial census.

No. 3 — LB247; eliminates the requirement of the reading of a bill at large before a final vote is taken by the Lgislature.

No. 4 — LB519; provides that retired Supreme Court or district court judges may be called for temporary duty by the Supreme Court.

No. 5 — LB810; authorizes the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska, the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges, and the State Board of Education, when approved as the Legislature shall provide, to issue revenue bonds to provide housing facilities, athletic facilities, student unions, parking facilities, and medical care and physical development facilities, and ratifying and validating any such revenue bonds previously issued by such boards.

No. 6 — LB816; provides for the repeal of the limitation on the county mill levy.

No. 7 — LB1020; creates a Commission on Legislative Compensation to set the salary and expenses of members of the Legislature.

No. 8 — LB369; changes the required number of qualified electors necessary to petition for the amendment of a home rule charter or to call a charter convention.

No. 9 — LB476: eliminates justices of the peace as constitutional courts; permits county court districts; vests general administrative authority over all court in the Supreme Court; provides for an administrative director of courts; restricts the practice of law by judges; and provides residence requirements for judges.

No. 10 — LB290; provides that the Legislature may classify personal property in such manner as it sees fit and may exempt any of such classes or may exempt all personal property from taxation.

No. 11 — LB1330; provides for investment of funds set apart for educational purposes as the Legislature shall provide and provides for the approval by the Legislature of the members appointed to the Board of Educational Lands and Funds.

No. 12 — LB1083: provides legislative authority to make grants for the benefit of students enrolled in nonpublic schools as reimbursement for the part of their tuition that is allocable to institutions in state-approved courses.

No. 13 — LB1160: (A) eliminates the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the Legislature and eliminates lieutenant governor's right to vote in case of a tie. (B.) authorizes the election of the governor and lieutenant governor from the same political party by one vote cast jointly. (C) Provides that the lieutenant governor shall serve on boards and commissions in lieu of the governor whenever designated by the governor, and shall perform such duties as may be delegated him by the governor and after Jan. 1, 1975, he shall devote his full time to the duties of his office.

No. 14—LB180: provides that the general government of the University of Nebraska, the state colleges, and publicly-supported junior colleges, vocational-technical schools and other institutions of higher education shall be vested in a nine-member Board of Trustees of Higher Education.

No. 15 — LB527: provides that beginning with the year 1971, regular sessions of the Legislature shall be held annually. The duration of regular sessions held shall not exceed 90 legislative days in odd-numbered years and shall not exceed 60 legislative days in even-numbered years. Bills and resolutions under consideration by the Legislature upon adjournment of a regular session held in an odd-numbered year may be considered at the next regular session as if there had been no such adjournment.

FBI To Investigate Vandalism Rash

By The Associated Press

The FBI said Wednesday it has launched an investigation into bombings, arson and vandalism that have hit draft board offices and other federal installations across the country.

Hundreds of draft records have been destroyed during the nighttime raids in recent months and extensive damage has been done to many of the buildings, according to a survey by The Associated Press.

The latest incident occurred Tuesday night at New York City's Armed Forces Induction Center in lower Manhattan, where an explosion shattered more than 40 windows, damaged walls and blew out partitions.

The building, which also had been the target of a bomb blast in 1968, houses the files of thousands of draftees but none of these records were damaged.

Several persons were in the lobby of the building when the 11:25 p.m. blast occurred on the fifth floor but no one was hurt.

An explosion at the base of a tree near an ROTC headquarters on the campus of Texas A&M University in College Station, Tex., shattered 31 windows in four dormitories Tuesday. Again, no one was hurt.

Three Separate Incidents

Three incidents occurred in the early morning hours of Sept. 26 — explosions in the federal buildings in Milwaukee and a National Guard armory in Madison, Wis., and a fire at a draft board in Akron, Ohio.

In Milwaukee an explosion in a stairway near draft offices did $75,000 damage. At almost the same time the armory in Madison sustained $100,000 damage from an explosion at the entrance to a drill area.

The fire in the Summit County draft board in Akron was attributed by authorities to an arsonist after two empty cleaning fluid cans were found.

Fire officials said the fluid had been poured on draft board records dumped from files, with heavy destruction of the records and walls of the office.

Six days later, two members of a group of antiwar demonstrators picketing the federal building and a church in Cleveland said publicly that they "felt responsible" for the Akron fire, but no arrests were made.

Manhattan Blast

The FBI and New York authorities are investigating an explosion that did considerable damage to the new federal building in downtown Manhattan on Sept. 19.

The blast damaged Department of Commerce offices — near a Department of Defense office and a floor above Selective Service offices.

Whether the explosion stemmed from a bomb or accumulation of gas has not been disclosed.

At Stroudsburg, Pa., Aug. 16 all A1 classification cards were burned, along with a picture of President Nixon, on the floor of the offices of a draft board. The approximately 9,000 file cards have since been replaced.

Fifteen persons allegedly were caught dancing around a bonfire of draft records in a draft board on Chicago's Southside May 25. Police said the group had smeared the draft records with paint and tar before burning them.

Last Saturday, fire destroyed files and damaged equipment at the Naval ROTC offices at Columbia University in New York.

New CAB Chairman

Washington (UPI) — Secor D. Browne, Lincoln, Mass., one of the key negotiators of the New York-to-Moscow air services, was sworn in as chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. He succeeds John H. Crooker, who resigned.

Bomb Wrecks Manhattan Induction Center

New York (UPI) — The U.S. Armed Services will remove their local draft processing, induction and recruiting operations to the safety of Brooklyn's Fort Hamilton as a result of the bombing of a Manhattan induction center, it was announced Wednesday.

An explosion wrecked the fifth floor of the Whitehall Street Induction Center shortly before midnight Tuesday and left it looking "like it had been damaged in World War II," according to Fred Goldberg, the center's press spokesman. The floor was sealed off while more than 100 investigators, including FBI agents, examined the area.

The 83-year-old Whitehall center, which processes about 250 men a day, has long been considered antiquated and unsuitable, Army sources said.

THE INSIDE STORY OF THE RUSSIAN-CHINESE WAR—Moscow and Peking may claim that their border war, clashes, or incidents are based on a dispute of territory. But that's not the real issue. Parade's Intelligence Report gives the inside story on an alarming state of affairs that could very well constitute a major danger to the entire world.

Bob Six — Maverick of the Airlines

Robert Six, president of Continental Airlines, did not exactly endear himself to competitors when he began flying his fleet of jets to Hawaii from Los Angeles, Seattle, and Portland, Ore. at $85 per economy passenger. That's less than one-half cent per mile. PARADE's Lloyd Shearer presents a colorful profile of this maverick of the air-lines, better known as the apostle of cheap air travel, in October 12 issue Sunday Journal and Star.

Cornhusker Power Attacks Corridor Request

By The Associated Press

Attorneys for Cornhusker Public Power District told the Nebraska Supreme Court Wednesday a request by Loup and Consumers Public Power Districts for a "so-called corridor between Columbus and Richland is supported neither by the evidence nor by common sense."

The statement came, in a brief filed with the high court, in response to a brief of appellees and cross-appellants filed with the Supreme Court Sept. 30.

Loup and Consumers had argued that the transfer of the strip of land to Consumers' service area would "eliminate continuing competition and conflict" between the two districts and Cornhusker.

The two districts are asking that an order by the Nebraska Power Review Board that denied the transfer of the complete land corridor to the Consumers service area be reversed.

Cornhusker initially argued that Loup and Consumers were violating the Cornhusker service area agreement by serving two industrial customers located near Columbus.

Loup and Consumers asked for the land corridor in Platte and Colfax Counties but were granted only the 400-acre Loup industrial site, upon which both the industrial customers were located.

Cornhusker brought the original supreme court action.

"Cornhusker should be given the statutory relief for violations of its service area and its rightful service area should be restored," the brief said Wednesday.

"Consumers-Loup seeks to elude the thrust" of power law "by a devious argument based on the preposterous assertion that "one of the two industrial customers was a Consumer electric customer before the date of the service area agreement, the brief said.

The customer did not even buy the land on which the plant was located until one month after the service agreement went into effect, the complaint said.

"The argument Loup-Consumers really is making is that it should take all the desirable customers in Cornhusker's service area because it (added together) is larger and Cornhusker is smaller," the brief said.

Walker Jumped By A Leopard

London (UPI) — An encounter with a leopard prevented marathon walker Dr. Barbara Moore from appearing in court Wednesday to answer bankruptcy proceedings against her. In a telegram to the court of appeals, Dr. Moore said: "I beg to adjourn the proceedings to enable me to recover. I was attacked by a leopard yesterday in Barcelona (Spain)." She did not elaborate. Among Dr. Moore's exploits was a walk in 1960 from New York to San Francisco.

Investments Lag Pending Naming Of Unit

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann is expected soon to announce his appointments to a reorganized Nebraska investment council.

Meanwhile, the investment of additional accruing surplus state money in revenue-producing securities remains at a temporary standstill.

The Legislature this year passed a bill, LB1345, which broadens the authority of the previously-established Nebraska Investment Council while taking away some of the investment authority previously vested in the state treasurer. The bill carried the emergency clause which made it effective Sept. 19, when Tiemann signed the measure.

The enactment abruptly stopped State Treasurer Wayne Swanson's authority to invest temporarily idle state funds in short term government securities.

At the time the act took effect, Swanson had $113.8 million invested. He said Wednesday he now has about $5 million more on hand which could be invested if anybody had the legal right to do so. He said the state is losing roughly $850 a day in unrealized interest because the $5 million is not invested.

LB1345 calls upon the governor to name the five-member investment council, which in turn appoints a full-time investment officer.

Iowa Democrats Oppose Haynsworth

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — Alan Baron, chairman of the Iowa Democratic Conference said Wednesday the group's executive committee opposes the nomination of Clement Haynsworth to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Baron said Haynsworth was "guilty of maintaining a double standard of justice in the area of civil rights and in his own ethical conduct while chief judge of the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals."

"The Iowa Democratic Conference calls upon the Senate of the United States to demonstrate its courage and foresight by rejecting the nomination of Clement Haynsworth," he said.

POSTCARD by Star Reporter

"Then we found this charming little restaurant we simply adored," she said. "Joe," she said, "what was the name of that little restaurant in Paris?

The cute place where we ate that night you got sick and thought it was something serious. Only it turned out just plain heartburn."

It is the social season, mates, and we have been doing the social ramble.

First we gave a party — "Do you think we ordered enough hors d'oeuvres?"

Then we went to a party. A charity party. Models. Door prizes. And everything goes to the hospital. ("Including me," I said. These standup jobs are flattening my feet.")

Then we went to a dinner party. We are social if it kills us. No doubt it will.

☆ ☆ ☆

The admirable thing about the social jump is how well it is organized. It is ritual stuff.

It is absolute madness to arrive at the time stated on the invitation. The invitation says: "We are having a — here we have a picture of a bubbly glass. Inside it says "Cocktail party — 7 to 9."

If you arrive at 7 you will find Madame in curlers. Her face still in plaster.

What you must do is come about 7:15. Drive around the block until you see somebody else parked first. Then you go in.

(There are some schools who don't arrive until 8. The big entrance — "The traffic was frightful." But these people have a hard time finding parking space. They may have to walk a couple of blocks.)

☆ ☆ ☆

There is the matter of dinner table seating. Sat next to a lady who somehow had figured I was in the insurance business.

"Do you believe in Blue Cross?" she asked.

I said: "Most bills I send them come back marked, 'Your policy does not cover these items'."

It is an absolute rule that husbands and wives must be separated. The male diner is seated between two strange females.

He should be attentive to both. Making conversation even though he has a mouthful of celery — crunch, crunch. Lighting cigarettes. Giving the impression that he is a sex fiend barely held in leash.

"Charlie thinks this dress is too daring. You've been in Paris recently. What do you think?"

☆ ☆ ☆

"I think it's grrrrrrand." (Watch it, Mac.)

The restaurant dinner party is run on the same lines. But a person runs the risk of starving to death while the orders are given.

'How are the sweetbreads. I adore sweetbreads. Joe, what was the name of the restaurant where we had the sweetbreads?"

The waiter says, "The sweetbreads are excellent, Madame."

She says, "Are they fattening? I gained a pound last week. I simply must diet. Charlie says he can't see it. But what do you think?"

☆ ☆ ☆

It is a rule that while ladies are deciding the waiter should bring one more. "One more all around of the same."

The waiter brings a gallon of martinis. (Good thing we are all sitting down.)

"The rack of lamb," says the lady. "It's for two? Who would like to join me in a rack of lamb?"

It winds up everybody takes steak anyway.

"Medium rare — just pink inside. You can't get fat on steak."

☆ ☆ ☆

That's the way the social hurdles are set up these days. I said: "What do you say we have a cocktail party where everybody sits down and gets comfortable?"

She said: "Are you out of your mind? People come to parties to move around and be social. Can you help me move these chairs in the back room? So it won't be so crowded."

NU Announces Study Of Its ROTC Program

By Associated Press

A study of the University of Nebraska's Reserve Officer Training Program is about to be launched.

Ten faculty members and students were named Wednesday to a Reserve Officer Training Program Evaluation Committee.

Dr. C. Peter Magrath, dean of faculties who reported the committee formation, said "I am proceeding under the assumption that reserve officer education is an appropriate activity for a land-grant university chartered under the Morrill Act and that the program will continue at the university in the years ahead."

Dean McGrath, who will be in charge of the committee, said he believes "it would be healthy and useful for the university to examine and evaluate our existing programs in aerospace studies, military science and naval science. This evaluation might well lead to suggestions for possible improvements in these programs as well as promoting a better understanding between these programs and our total university community."

Dr. Philip A. Crowl, chairman of the History Department, will serve as committee chairman.

Other members include Thomas F. Doninick, senior from Lawrence; Kenneth L. Nohe, Law College student from Wahoo; Gordon L. Neigh III, freshman in the Centennial Education Program from Council Bluffs, Iowa; Dr. Wallace C. Peterson, chairman of the Department of Economics; Dr. Robert Narveson, associate professor of English; Dr. Mark J. Hammer, professor of civil engineering; Dr. A. W. Epp, professor of agricultural economics; Carroll A. Londoner, assistant professor of adult and continuing education, and Capt. Herschel A. Pahl, chairman of the Department of Naval Science.

CARMICHAEL

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Two thousand children die in home fires every year in this country. Yet, most children could walk swiftly away from death if they were given the most elementary fire instructions.

For the safety of your family, sit down with your children and work out a fire escape plan together. Map out the emergency exits in your home or apartment, such as doors, windows, and large vents. Plan two escape routes from every room.

A child should learn that if a usual exit is blocked, he should quickly use another. Many frightened youngsters have perished in burning buildings because they hid in their rooms instead of breaking out a window to escape.

Teach your children to escape at once. Do not let them try to put out the fire or stop to gather up possessions.

Once outside a burning home, the family should have a central meeting place where a head count can be taken.

Hundreds On HEW Blacklist

©The New York Times

Washington — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare for years has been blacklisting hundreds of scientists, preventing them from serving on advisory panels that guide research efforts and funds.

Among those blacklisted are recipients of scores of honors and awards. They include members of the prestigious National Academy of Sciences, presidents of learned societies, graduate school deans and researchers with international reputations.

Most of those excluded either had brushes with congressional committees in the past or had been members of left-wing political organizations, or oppose the war in Vietnam.

'Suitability'

"Security and suitability" are the usual reasons given for the blacklisting, a practice of which department officials have said they are either ignorant or refuse to admit exists.

A spokesman for the department conceded Wednesday, however, that the policy on blacklisting certain outside consultants had been going on in the department for years.

"The department has the whole procedure under review, being studied in concert by both people within and outside of the department," he said.

Times Obtains Copy

However, The New York Times has obtained a copy of one of the blacklists containing the names of 48 scientists. This list, which was compiled at the National Institute of Mental Health, has two sheets labeled "currently inelgible" and "not nominated recently but ineligible in the past."

The 48 names were traced and 34 of them were interviewed by telephone. Of those, 32 were found to fit the blacklist category.

One of the two exceptions discovered he was on the list and had his name taken off through congressional intervention. The second was appointed to an advisory group last year after what he described as a mysterious absence of 11 years.

A dozen other scientists who said they were blacklisted were interviewed either personally or by telephone.

Number Mystery

The exact number of persons barred from serving on advisory groups at the department is a mystery; only the department knows. However, persons who have been on several lists, which are arranged by the field of work in which they are engaged, have estimated that the total number ranges from 200 to 500 or more, depending on how the compilation is made.

The interviewed scientists expressed anger, frustration and outright contempt for a system that some have futilely fought for years. Some of those interviewed were fearful that their blacklisting would become public knowledge.

The blacklisting problem has mounted to the point that representatives of 27 scientific and legal groups met at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington Tuesday to compose a resolution protesting the security clearance procedures. A delegation sought, but failed, to see Robert H. Finch, the HEW secretary, to voice their complaints.

Paradox

The paradox of the situation is that while the black-listed men and women have been viewed as potential risks by HEW, some have served on residential panels, as advisers to the National Science Foundation, and consultants to the Defense Department, the Veterans Administration and the United Nations. Some of those who are barred hold positions with state agencies and private organizations.

Many of those barred have obtained security clearances from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Defense Department, yet they are unacceptable to HEW, whose operations include little secret work.

Those blacklisted include psychiatrists, psychologists anthropologists, biochemists, p hysiologists, sociologists, microbiologists and social workers.

Pass FBI Check

Several of those interviewed said that once they had found that they had been blacklisted, they had demanded and had passed a security investigation by the FBI.

"This is a relic from the barbarous McCarthy era," commneted one scientist.

This scientist was named by the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wis., as a possible security risk. The scientist demanded, was given and was cleared in a FBI investigation, yet his name still appears on an HEW blacklist.

Firm Confident Of Haynsworth

Washington (AP) — If Judge Clement F. Haynsworth doesn't win confirmation to the Supreme Court there will be some red faces at Hill and Knowlton, Inc.

The public relations firm has printed 20,000 copies of its latest directory of key government personnel with Haynsworth listed as an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Laird Won't Serve Another Term

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, stating that his predecessor, Robert McNamara held the job too long, says he plans to run the Defense Department only through President Nixon's first term.

"I don't want to give anyone the impression that I'm all worn out," Laird said, "because I'm not. In fact, I feel like a tiger right now."

But the former Wisconsin congressman said that he thought no man should try to run the department for more than four years.

Laird made his comments in an interview with John W. Kole, of the Washington bureau of the Milwaukee Journal.

Laird, 47, said he felt McNamara, who held the post for slightly more than seven years under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, allowed too many decisions to come to his desk." He said he felt the duration of McNamara's stay diminished his effectiveness.

McNamara in his early years as Pentagon chief also indicated that he felt four years was enough but he stayed on.

Laird had held Wisconsin's 7th Congressional District seat for 16 years before he answered the Republican president's call to the Cabinet post.

Laird said that when he steps down as secretary of defense he was looking forward only to some rest.

He discounted the idea of returning to Wisconsin next year to run for the Senate against William Proxmire, a Democrat.

He's training for the Future. Your carrier boy is forming habits now that will be important in later life. Your suggestions on ways he can improve will be appreciated. Notify Circulation Dept.

Can religion solve all the problems of the world?

Can religion solve any of them?

There are people who say "religion" is as out of touch with the times as the dinosaur. And about as useful.
After all, how has "religion" solved the problems of our cities, the agony of war, our racial strife, the seeming chasm between the young and the old?
Indeed, what should we expect "religion" to be able to do in solving the very real problems of our time?
To take just the example of our troubled cities—churches and synagogues have not a fraction of the material resources needed to heal the wounds.
It's as simple as that.
But have they failed, if they point the moral way, provide the moral resolve, and, of course, assist materially to the limit of their resources?
"Religion," indeed, cannot fail—nor, for that matter, succeed—because "religion" is merely a word.
What gives "religion" meaning and force is you.
And everyone who cares enough for God to show God's love in the world. Every day. Everywhere.
For the problems that beset our world are not proof that God has failed Man.
But just the opposite.

Tiemann Advises Officials To Disregard Restrictions

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

All state departments and agencies have been advised by Gov. Norbert T Tiemann to disregard the annual personal services restrictions placed by the Legislature in various appropriation bills.

Tiemann's letter was addressed to State Administrative Services Director Robert McManus and copies were circulated Wednesday to the 69 state agencies and four state colleges.

Tiemann said in his letter "These restrictions are not in accordance with the constitution which requires biennial appropriations."

'Checks And Balances'

"Neither are they consistent with the constitutional system of checks and balances which makes the governor responsible for administering laws passed by the Legislature."

However, Tiemann said his directive "does not mean that agencies should not use discretion in granting salary increases."

Noting his 1969-71 budget recommendations generally limited agencies to "a five per cent increase per year" for personal services, Tiemann said, "I still feel this guideline must be followed."

However, he added, "Upon presentation of adequate justification, I feel that deviation must be allowed department administrators."

Flexibility

"Without this prerogative all administrative flexibility is eliminated and the Legislature becomes the chief administrative official of state government."

The Tiemann letter corresponded to statements made by the governor at a news conference following adjournment of the Unicameral's 80th session.

McManus said copies of the letter were sent to both "code" agencies (those directly under the governor's control) as well as "non-code" agencies.

The letter itself directed McManus, in connection "with your statutory duties in respect to the audit and payment of vouchers for personal services," to disregard the restrictions imposed by the Legislature.

Tighter Control

These restrictions, written into 1969-71 appropriations by the Budget Committee and later adopted by the Legislature, were aimed at giving the lawmakers tighter fiscal control over administrative salaries down to program level.

When Tiemann earlier announced his intentions of ignoring the restrictions, he repeated his observation that the Unicameral has the first guess on legislative matters, the governor has the second guess, and the Supreme Court has the third and final one.

The Legislature has directed Attorney General Clarence Meyer to initiate a court test seeking precise answers related to the governor's budget making powers and the Legislature's powers over appropriations.

HHH To Support Nixon If Systematic Plan Used

•The New York Times

Washington—Former Vice President Hubert H. Humhhrey was reported by Congressional sources Wednesday to have assured President Nixon of his public support if the administration decided in favor of "systematic withdrawal" of all American combat forces from Vietnam.

The pledge of support was said to have been contained in a personal letter that Humphrey recently sent Nixon in an attempt to keep the Vietnam issue out of partisan politics.

Humphery, who was teaching today at the University of Minnesota, was not immediately available for comment.

He has discussed, however, the letter with some of his Democratic colleagues in Congress who are becoming increasingly critical of the administration's Vietnam policy.

As explained to his Democratic colleagues, Humphrey made the move in an attempt to "departmentalize" the war issue and to encourage the president to take more ambitious steps to end the war.

In effect, Humhrey was telling the President that if he were to announce specific plans for withdrawal of American troops, he could count on Democratic support, lead by the Democratic presidential candidate last year.

Humphrey, according to associates, has become concerned over indications that some Democrats were moving to make a party issue out of the Vietnam War.

House Crime Hearing Here On Saturday

The House Select Committee on Crime will hold hearings in Lincoln Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Statehouse, it was announced Wednesday.

The hearings are scheduled for 10 a.m. in the East Senate Chamber.

Four congressmen, including Rep. Robert Denney of Nebraska's First District, will be on hand for hearings in Omaha and Lincoln.

The Omaha sessions will precede the Capital City hearing.

Other congressmen who will be in Lincoln include Claude Pepper of Florida, Jerome Waldie of California and Albert Watson of South Carolina.

The congressmen will leave Omaha for Lincoln Saturday morning stopping on the way to view wild marijuana growing along the roadside.

A list of prospective committee witnesses is expected to be available later this week.

Tomlinson Heads Sign Association

The Lincoln Sign Association has elected John Tomlinson president for the 1969-70 term.

Other officers elected are Chris Christensen, vice president, and Sid Dewey, secretary-treasurer.

Woman Is Found Guilty In Trial On Assault Count

A Lancaster District Court jury delivered a verdict of guilty Wednesday in the trial of Mary Dell Hamby, charged with assault with intent to rob in a June 22 attempted robbery at a service station.

Judge Bartlett Boyles deferred sentencing pending the filing of a motion for a new trial.

The 33-year-old Salem, Mo., woman was accused of attempting to rob the Harbor Service Station at West O and Capitol Beach Blvd.

Stephan Gorka Jr., the service station attendant at the time, reportedly talked the woman out of robbing him.

Moratorium Has Support Of Exon

Democratic National Committeeman J. James Exon said Wednesday he supports as a "very good thing" the moratorium scheduled on campuses over the nation next Wednesday to protest U.S. involvement in the war in Vietnam.

The Lincoln businessman said he hopes the expression of views will be kept "in good taste," and said he has been advised that such will be the case in Nebraska.

He said persons opposed to the U.S. position in Vietnam should be encouraged "to peacefully express their opposition."

He said President Nixon, in discounting the influence of student protests, "has gone too far."

Thompson Heads Sunrise Optimists

Ted Thompson has been elected the 1969-70 president the Lincoln Sunrise Optimist Club.

Thompson, one of the club's charter members, will be assisted by newly elected Vice President W. F. Steele and Howard Waddle, secretary-treasurer.

WALGREENS · HOME OF WONDERPRICES!

Walgreens Launches a Terrific Blow at Inflation!...

WONDER-

SUPER DISCOUNT PRICES!

TEN THOUSAND STRONG!

Every Day! Every Week!

READ ALL ABOUT IT!

WHAT ARE WONDERPRICES?

Ten thousand discounts. We aren't whistling about a discount here or a discount there. Walgreens is discounting all the way. In our ads, on our shelves, we show you the full prices, show your discount, show your WONDERprice, so you see exactly how much you save. You get solid discounts on famous brand merchandise for your health, your home, your family. On big things, little things. Your total savings will be . . . WONDERful!

WHEN DO THEY START?

Now. Today and every day, seven days a week. If you like to shop Tuesday mornings, you get WONDERprices. Saturday night? Same WONDERprices. You shop when you like and WONDERsave any day.

ANY LIMITS?

None. No time limit on WONDERprices. No quantity limits. If you want to buy a dozen, fine. If you like to buy one at a time, worry not. It will be WONDERpriced next time, too.

HOW CAN WE DO IT?

First, we're the nation's No. 1 drugstores. The biggest. We sell in volume like no one else can. We're streamlined for efficiency—from automated warehousing, to computer systems, to the best employees in the business. We don't kid around with stamps or gimmicks. With over a million customers a day nationwide, we can operate on PROFITS IN PENNIES. And we expect to do so much more business that we'll come out smiling. Just as you're going to do.

NO QUESTION ABOUT QUALITY:

All the same fine brands. Same satisfaction-or-money-back guarantee on anything we sell. You can rely on what you buy at Walgreens.

EXCEPTIONS: Only two. (And we don't need fine print.)

1. By law or contract, there are some items that we simply cannot discount. (Nor can anyone). 2. When our buyers make an exceptional purchase, or a manufacturer offers a temporary special, we'll save you MORE. Then, like the "BONUS BUYS" on the next page, you price is even lower than the low everyday WONDERprice. How about that . . . !

MISS DEANNA LAMB

Town circles and the Nebraska Wesleyan Campus will share interest this morning in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lamb of Unadilla of the engagement of their daughter, Deanna Faye, to Thom K Cope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cope of Lincoln.

No wedding date is named.

Miss Lamb is attending Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Delta Zeta sorority.

Mr. Cope is a graduate of Syracuse University, Syracuse, N.Y., where he is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. He now is attending the University of Nebraska College of Law.

Bride-Elect Plans Home Ceremony

Miss Joallyn Dee Holmquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G Holmquist, has announced that her marriage to George Hofer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Hofer of Bridgewater, S.D., will be solemnized Saturday afternoon at the home of her parents.

The service, which will be solemnized by the Rev. Roy E. Benson of Grace Lutheran Church, assisted by the Rev. Leland Lesher, pastor emeritus of Grace Lutheran, in the presence of members of the family, will be followed by a wedding luncheon for the members of the bridal party and family, after which an open house will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holmquist.

Miss Marsha Holmquist will attend her sister as maid of honor, and Mike Holmquist, brother of the bride-elect, will serve Mr. Hofer as best man.

Miss Holmquist's brother, Hal Holmquist, will light the candles for the 12:30 o'clock service, and the ringbearer and flower boy will be Don Holmquist and Jim Holmquist, also brothers of the bride-to-be.

To complete the family participation in the wedding of Miss Holmquist and Mr. Hofer, the bride-elect's sister-in-law, Mrs. Mike Holmquist, will be the vocal soloist and will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. E. Wendell Stevens, pianist, who also will play the wedding music.

Entertaining in prenuptial courtesy to Miss Holmquist on Tuesday evening, Oct. 14, will be Mrs. R. C. Mullen and Mrs. Bob Partridge who will be hostesses at a miscellaneous shower to be held at the home of Mrs. Partridge.

Thursday evening, Oct. 16, Mr. and Mrs. Holmquist will honor their daughter and her fiance at a late evening supper following the wedding rehearsal.

Cotillion Club Has Business Meeting

When the Cotillion Club says 'business meeting' — it means just that — business. It comes as no surprise then that when the Cotillion Club members held their annual business meeting on Tuesday evening at the University Club they wasted little time in small talk.

There were new officers to be elected, of course, but the prime interest of all concerned were the new members.

This year only four new member couples were invited to join Cotillion which is one of the oldest of the dining and dancing clubs, and the happy eightsome includes Dr. and Mrs. William Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Connealy, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Sweet and Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Walters.

Named to the presidency for the coming year were Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Ludwick, and elected to take over the duties of secretary and treasurer were Mr. and Mrs. Eames Irwin.

DAC Group Luncheon

Plans for the coming season will be discussed Saturday at a meeting of the Hannah Duston Chapter, Daughters of American Colonists, to be held at the home of Mrs. Norman Grubb, 2601 Woodsdale.

Mrs. C. C. Cartney and Mrs. Levi Gay will be assisting hostesses for the 1 o'clock dessert-luncheon, and conducting the planning session will be Miss Irma Jean Croft, chapter regent.

Report

The members of Chapter EE, PEO, will meet at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, to hear a report on the recent convention of the Supreme Chapter of PEO.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ward Sybouts, 621 Broadview, and the report will be given by Mrs. R. R. Burn, Mrs. H. C. Harper and Mrs. A. H. Miller.

Hostess

Mrs. James Hacker was hostess at her home, 7220 Lincolnshire Rd., to the members of Cosmopals on Wednesday evening.

The 7:30 o'clock dessert was followed by an informal evening of cards, and members of the hostess committee were Mrs. C. L. Wilcox, chairman, Mrs. Chester Krouse and Mrs. Robert Barry.

Faculty Club Tea Opens New Season

Opening its 1969-70 year of activities and projects on Wednesday was the University of Nebraska Faculty Women's Club which met for both an afternoon and evening reception at the chancellor's residence, 5930 Norman Rd.

Composed not only of the wives of faculty and feminine members of the faculty at the university's downtown and East campuses, the club concentrates on two main projects annually: its scholarship fund financed by annual dues; and a special student aid fund based on voluntary and memorial gifts.

The organization has seven general meetings during the school year and provides an opportunity for the faculty women and wives of faculty members to become better acquainted, with emphasis on welcoming newcomers into civic and university circles.

General programs for the current year were selected to serve two purposes — to entertain the members and to help the membership keep informed about university activities and progress. Program topics will include such diverse themes as music, fashions, a panel discussion on the tri-university organization, and lectures on "Feeding The World", and the university's Centennial education program.

The general club also sponsors a variety of interest groups such as the study of art and literature, and activity groups such as dancing and golf. A special group is organized for international women, and added to the list this year is a dessert-bridge group to meet at the Faculty Club, and a gourmet dinner group for couples.

Pictured Wednesday afternoon at the reception, for which Mrs. Milton Beckmann and Mrs. Theodore Jorgensen served as co-hostesses, as well as for the evening gathering from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock, are (seated, from the left) Mrs. Marvin J. Twiehaus, Mrs. Dale Flowerday and Mrs. Thomas McCalla; and (standing) Mrs. Monty McMahon, Mrs. Robert Chapman, Mrs. William Todd, Mrs. Frans Amelinckx and Mrs. David Johnson.

Club officers for the year include Mrs. Neil Munson, president; Mrs. Miles Tommeraasen, vice president; Mrs. R. G. Guilford, second vice president; Mrs. John Moran, third vice president; Mrs. Glenn Froning, secretary; and Mrs. Adam Breckenridge, treasurer.

Incidentally, the club's scholarship recipients this year are Kathie Gunn of Lincoln, a senior in the university's School of Nursing at Omaha, and Marilyn Dirks of Concord, junior in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Crime Studies

The second in the series of studies on crime prevention will be presented Thursday evening following the 5:15 o'clock dinner of the Lincoln Business and Professional Women's Club at Brandeis Store.

The introduction will be given by Mrs. Alice Conneally, program chairman, assisted by Mrs. Charlotte Jackson, and the evening's discussion, "The Cost of Crime," will be under the direction of Mrs. Mildred McKie.

Assisting with the planning for the program series are Mrs. Mildred Orput, chairman of the personal development committee; Miss Mildred Stanley, chairman of the civic participation committee; Mrs. Sally Dudgeon, world affairs chairman; and Miss Olga Cherry, who is program chairman of the state BPW Clubs.

Autumn Program

The autumn meeting of the National Society of Colonial Dames of the 17th Century in Nebraska will be held in Lincoln on Thursday, Oct. 16.

Following a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at The Knolls, Mrs. Milton Flack will speak on, "Looking Back at the Seventeenth Century", and presiding will be Mrs. Merrill J. Hewitt of Omaha, state president.

A meeting of the board will be held at 11:30 o'clock, preceding the luncheon.

Interest Shown In Restoring Old, Famous Operas

By RAYMOND ERICSON

(c) New York Times Service

New York — There is nothing wrong with the concept of an opera house — or any musical institution, for that matter — as a museum. What is wrong is the notion that a museum is static, that it should preserve in a deep freeze only the masterpieces of the past. No museum worth its support does just this, however basic a function it may be. Instead, it is constantly sifting the great accumulation of the centuries, taking a fresh look at it in the light of current perspectives. Their cellars or storehouses may look like junkyards or flea circuses, but these have been known to yield treasures or items that are suddenly realized to have meaning for our time.

In the world of opera, the most startling of recent revivals was that of Pier Francesco Cavalli's "L'Ormindo," which dates back to 1644. Who would have thought it could be more than an archaic curiousity, esteemed though it was by scholars? Yet it turned out to have the kind of stage vitality that made at least three American groups venture productions after its reincarnation at a Glyndebourne Festival in England. A coming production will be by the Oberlin Music Theater, Aug. 6 through 9, at Oberlin, Ohio.

The interest in restoring the operas of Handel or the socalled "lesser" works of Verdi to the stage goes back to the Germany of the 1920's, and it took a long time for this interest to percolate into American consciousness. Yet Handel's "Julius Caesar" is finally an adornment of the New York City Opera's repertory; Verdi's "Macbeth," "Don Carlo" and 'Luisa Miller" are now taking their turns with surprising regularity in the Metropolitan Opera's seasons. One suspects that, under better circumstances, the Met's revival of "Nabucco" could have been durable, too.

Obviously, too, old operas cannot be revived without singers who can do them justice. Where works of the baroque period, of the Bellini-Rossini-Donizetti schools, are concerned, they have often stood or fallen on the vocal virtuosity available. A rare chance to hear Meyerbeer's "Les Hugoenots" in the concert version given this spring by the American Opera Society might just as well have been bypassed. Whatever worth the music had was strangulated in the singing.

All of this is to say that the problems in reviving neglected operas are recognized. But that does not absolve opera companies from helping today's public reevaluate the music of the past. There is about 350 years of operatic literature available, and hidden in it are who knows how many scores that could add to the entertainment, the enrichment or the emotional excitement of today's audiences.

New Yorkers should have an adequate chance, which they have never had, for example, to see and hear what the Berlioz operas are like. It does not matter that "Benvonuto Cellini," "Beatrice and Benedict" and "The Trojans" have been found wanting in certain respects. Remember that it used to be said about Handel that his operas were nothing but concerts in costume, until it was shown that the composer's powers of dramatic characterization counted for a great deal in a theatrical context. It took 132 years for Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte" to get a hearing in America, presumably because it was thought to be inferior to the composer's other operas.

This coming season the Met will present a new production of Gluck's lovely and touching "Orpheus and Eurydice," but his powerful "Iphigenia In Tauris" just as much deserves revival.

Parisians found that the operas of the 18th-Century Rameau were not too remote for 20th-Century pleasure when "Les Indes Galantes" was given at the opera around 1950, and Bostonians discovered a similar enjoyment a few seasons back when "Acis and Galatea" was presented by Sarah Caldwell's company. The vast Bellini-Rossini-Donizetti repertory, outside of a few items that have always retained popularity, has its eager explorers after almost a century of neglect.

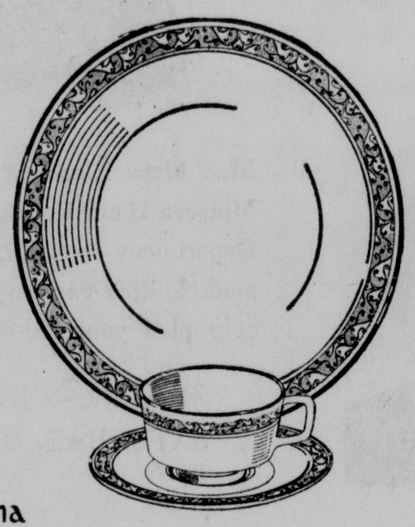

It is easy to turn into a mere game the listing of operas one would personally like to hear, yet there are those whose charm is verifiable through recordings and which cry out for staging: Cornelius's "The Barber of Bagdad," Dvorak's "Rusalka," Puccini's "La Rondine," Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," Virgil Thomson's "The Mother Of Us All."

Some new young small groups are having the courage to reach out into the future, conceiving opera in entirely different terms from those of the past. Similar groups are showing the courage to reach back, if in a tentative way. The efforts of the Metropolitan Opera Studio have been in that direction; for this summer's Newport Music Festival, it has dug up a work called "Cendrillon," composed by the great 19th-Century mezzo-soprano Pauline Viardot-Garcia. Some schools have had the will and the resources to revive works favored by older generations. Still, it is to the major companies of the city that one looks for the full-bodied, wholly adequate restorations. Museums they may and should be, but they could at least be lively.

Funds Will Benefit Foster Children

A highlight of the October meeting of the Mrs. JayCees of Lincoln, held Wednesday evening at the Lincoln Electric System building, was the presentation of a check for $620, the profits from the organization's annual September fashion show benefit.

Mrs. Roger Burling, show chairman, presented the check to the Mrs. JayCees president, Mrs. Jim Miller, who will contribute the money to the Nebraska Mrs. JayCees state-wide project of aid to foster children.

The state program chairman is Mrs. Emanuel Sich of Ord, state vice president of Mrs. JayCees, who has announced that during the current year, Mrs. JayCees contributions to the youngsters will provide for a variety of special schooling, music lessons, camp fees, and especially medical aids.

Club To Meet

The members of the East Lincoln Homemakers Extension Club, costumed in "hard times" clothes, will be the guests of Mrs. William E. Tracy, 1026 So. 33rd, on Thursday evening.

Assisting hostess for the 7:30 o'clock meeting and program will be Mrs. Martin Bassett.

The lesson, "Functional Fabric Finishes," will be presented by Mrs. L. H. Davenport and Mrs. Robert Lee, and the evening also will feature a craft lesson.

New club officers, elected at the September meeting who will assume their new duties in January, include Mrs. LeRoy Krueger, president; Mrs. Martin Bassett, vice president; Mrs. John Pittman, secretary; Mrs. Paul Kersenbrock, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Mulleins and Mrs. William Tracy, craft leaders; Mrs. Dan Miller, health leader; and Mrs. Michael Douglass, publicity.

Dinner

Reservations must be made by Thursday for the dutch-treat dinner sponsored by the Parents Without Partners next Saturday evening. The buffet dinner, followed by dancing, will be held at 6:30 o'clock at the Colonial Inn party room.

Reservations must be made with Mary Lou Hanson, 488-5494.

Plan Time To Read

Today's parents are spectators and it's about time they became participants.

That's the opinion of Dr. Lloyd Melis, chairman of the education department of Carthage College, Kenosha, Wis., who feels that today's young parents have been brought up on a diet of television, night clubs, and athletic contests in which all they have done is sit back and be entertained.

"It's about time parents began entertaining themselves as well as their children. Instead of sitting by and having the professional amuse or enlighten them, they should get into the act, make contact with new ideas, and exercise imaginations as well as their bodies," he said.

Dr. Melis pleads for more oral reading, among other activities in which the whole family can participate.

"It is a friendly, quiet, and thoroughly refreshing thing to do," he said. "More than that, it is a shared experience which draws people closer together. Husbands and wives, families, and groups of friends can enjoy the comfortable satisfaction that comes from laughing together, learning together, from doing the same thing at the same time, together."

Dr. Melis, who also is educational consultant to Hertzberg-New Method, Inc., Jacksonville, Ill., distributor of paperback books and manufacturer of Perma-Bound hard cover paperbacks, believes it is especially important for parents to devote time to reading to their pre-school children who cannot yet read themselves.

"Happy listening is bound to stimulate a child's eagerness to gain skill in reading," said Dr. Melis. "As you unfold for him the fun and interest that reside in books, he'll look forward to the reading pleasure that lies ahead."

He noted too, that hearing stories exposes children to language patterns they may never hear in ordinary conversation. This may be helpful in improving the child's own knowledge of language and improve his vocabulary.

Dr. Melis suggested that parents begin reading to their children books that the children will encounter in their early reading years. He noted that a new, inexpensive set of paperback books has been assembled especially for this purpose.

Titled "The Peter Possum Series," the 63-book set contains books considered classics in the field of children's literature. Included are colorfully illustrated stories by such authors as Hans Christian Anderson, Leslie Brooke, Robert Browning, Randolph Caldecott, Lewis Carroll, Eugene Field, Kate Greenaway, Rudyard Kipling, Beatrix Potter, Roberta Sewal, and Robert Lewis Stevenson, among others.

Dr. Melis noted that, as parents continue to read to their children, they will be keeping alive the pleasure to be found in books, which children then will carry through into their adolescent and adult years.

"In addition," said Dr. Melis, "many teachers report that children who have been read to at home often plunge more quickly into advanced, reading than those who are unfamiliar with books and stories."

Dr. Melis, however, does add a note of caution to his suggestion that parents spend more time reading to their children.

"If a child has come to count on his reading time with his mother or father as the only time when he can be sure of being with either of them and of having their undivided attention for himself, he may resist any change which threatens this bond. He may feel that once he learns to read he will be forever deprived of the close company of the beloved parent," Dr. Melis said. "So, it's up to parents to do more with their children, and participate in more activities together so their children will be encouraged to try things on their own, secure in their knowledge that they're continuing to share experiences."

MISS DIXIE WALLEN

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wallen of the engagement of their daughter, Dixie, to Myron Yohn of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yohn of Greenwood.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, May 16.

Miss Wallen is a graduate of the Lincoln Beauty Academy and now is a coed at the University of Nebraska.

Mr. Yohn completed a tour of military duty with the U.S. Army and now is residing in Lincoln.

NU Coed, Bride

All-white gladioli and chrysanthemums tipped in blue formed the chancel decor in the First United Methodist Church of Nebraska City on Friday evening, Sept. 26, for the marriage of Miss Cheryl Elizabeth Pollard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Theron Pollard, to William Boyd Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Mayfield, all of Nehawka. The 7 o'clock candlelight service was solemnized by the Rev. Victor Ireland, and Mrs. Ivan Hansen of Nehawka, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Miss Patricia Bourn of Lexington.

Slim, high-collared frocks of peacock blue velvet with full, organza sleeves were worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Don Uhe of Plattsmouth, and Miss Barbara Mayfield, Nehawka, sister of the bridegroom, who were the honor attendants, and the bridesmaids, Miss Linda Sue Meyer, Murdock, and Miss Bonnie Jane Mayfield, also a sister of the bridegroom. They carried nosegays of blue-tipped white pompons.

Lyle Pollard of Nehawka, brother of the bride, served Mr. Mayfield as best man, and seating the guests were Rex Kirchhoff, Hardy; Bob Mayfield, Nemaha; Gene Mayfield, Garland; and Randy Bumgarner, Bruning. The groomsmen were Kenneth Adams, Lincoln; Neil Balfour and Ed Fitch, both of Nehawka.

The bride's gown of ivory peau de soie was trimmed with cluny lace in a cameo motif. The lace overlay the snug basque, forming the high collar and continuing over the shoulders into the full silk sleeves, and the skirt of controlled fullness continued into an aisle-wide train. A cluster of lace and silk petals held her illusion veil, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white and yellow blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayfield, both students at the University of Nebraska, will live at 3342 W.

Autumn really is here, in case you haven't noticed. The first week of October has come and gone; the Nebraska football team is well into its schedule of games and the leaves are beginning to carpet a few sidewalks and streets here and there.

Suburban residents are busy, busy, busy with traveling—some following their favorite football team and others going other places for other reasons. There even is a halloween party planned for the end of the month, but news of that will have to wait for another day.

Today we will begin with the plans Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hile and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Reese are making to attend the Nebraska-Missouri game on Saturday. The Maple Village foursome will leave Saturday morning for Columbia, Mo., where they will attend the game that afternoon. After the game it will be on to Kansas City, Kan., where they will have dinner and spend the night before returning to Lincoln on Sunday.

While Mr. and Mrs. Hile are at the game their children, Danny, Jimmy, Todd and Shari, will be enjoying themselves as overnight houseguests of their grandmother, Mrs. Viola Lowe.

Since we've mentioned some activities for the coming weekend, we want to tell you about the past Friday-to-Monday period which was very full of family gatherings and travel. Sunday, Oct. 5, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Slepicka of Maple Village went to Tobias for a family dinner and celebration of three birthday anniversaries.

The honored guests were Mrs. Slepicka and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fisher who were dinner host and hostess. Mr. Fisher's actual birthday anniversary was Tuesday, Sept. 30, while Mrs. Slepicka's is today, Oct. 9, and Mrs. Fisher's will be Thursday, Oct. 10. Joining the family circle for the occasion were Mrs. Slepicka's sister, Miss Darcy Fisher of Lincoln, and Jim Frisch, also of Lincoln.

Last weekend was a popular time for family gatherings in Southbrook Summit, too. Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Vosta entertained members of Mr. Vosta's family as dinner guests at their home on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 5. Their guests included Mr. Vosta's mother, Mrs. Rose Vosta; his brother and sister-in-law, Mr.and Mrs. Edward Vosta, all of Crete; and his brothers-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Svancara of Crete and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Weilage of Martell.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Heald are enjoying their taste of country living — or almost country living — at their 6810 Almira Lane home. The former Southbrook Summit residents moved to their new address early in September and have been busy getting things arranged and re-arranged.

While we are on the subject of new addresses let's mention that Mr. and Mrs. James H. Mitchell, formerly of 2300 Stockwell, now are residents of the Prairie Valley area. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and son, Mark, moved into their home at 2620 N. Eden Dr. the first part of September, also.

Mrs. Robert Hudson retrned to her Prairie Valley home Sunday, Oct. 5, after a one-week visit at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. R. M. Gilfillan of Ft. Worth, Tex. Since Mr. Hudson wasn't able to accompany his wife, he was eager to hear all of the news, especially anything about Maj. and Mrs. Gilfillan's children, Leslie, who is 12, Mike, 10, and Susan, five.

Tuesday morning, Oct. 7, Mrs. Charles Miller was a coffee hostess when she entertained her Eastmont neighbors. Her guests included Mrs. William Sommer, Mrs. Don Trumble, Mrs. Paul Miller, Mrs. Elsa Pelikan, Mrs. Boris Wawyrszczuk, Mrs. Roy Ochsner and Mrs. B. W. Jones.

Nelson Rockefeller Is Back On List Of Ten Best Dressed Men And All Because Of His Ancient Double-Breasted Clothes

A verbal picture of what the best dressed men are wearing is given this morning by Walter Logan of the United Press International. Mr. Logan gives us first-hand information concerning what the men — the 10 best dressed as listed by the Guild are wearing — Here is his story, and an interesting one it is.

BY WALTER LOGAN

New York — Whenever New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's name crops up in men's clothing circles the same joke is always repeated: He has hung onto his double-breasted suits so long they're back in style again. Tuesday he made a best dressed list.

The Custom Tailors Guild of America has been issuing a list of 10 best dressed fashion leaders in various professions for the past 24 years, a bit of nonsense that saw them add Joe Namath this year, Namath of mod shirts, bell bottom trousers, and an old $5,000 mink coat.

If one were to criticize the selection it might be pointed out the Guild ignored Kenney Harrelson, first baseman of the Cleveland Indians, who is reputed to have 75 sports jackets, 100 pairs of slacks, all tailored in impeccable taste, and 80 to 90 pairs of shoes, all neatly shined.

Or Joe Pepitone, the New York Yankee first baseman who teases his hair and has the sharpest outfits yet seen. Or Lance Alsworth, the wide receiver of the San Diego Chargers, who is a fashion plate. Or boxer Emil Griffith or Ed Charles, the Mets' third baseman, whose wardrobe probably is bigger than Harrelson's.

Rockefeller is neat enough, of course, but he failed to set the fashion world on fire at a recent outing on his palatial estate at Pocantico Hills, N.Y., for the art world. Daily News society columnist Suzy Duly reported he wore rust-colored trousers, a peacock blue jacket and a black and white striped shirt. "Rustic," she said later. "Very Sunday in the country." Okay. But those double breasteds?

A socialite guest said Rockefeller's pants were so baggy he thought at first Rockey worked there.

The list was announced by Fred Balletta, president of the Guild, who forecast that, "many men, including some recognized as our contemporary style leaders, will break new fashion ground in garments and styles yet unknown to our tailors." Not Rockefeller.

He noted, then, that "a man can most certainly also be well dressed in conservatively cut garments." Conservative cut? Not Namath. He turns up at football practice in outlandish creations usually seen only in the depths of Greenwich Village and worn by teen-agers.

A special award was given this year to Jackie Gleason of Miami Beach, the television personality, "because he epitomizes the ability of a large man to look dapper. Gleason serves as an inspiration to many overweight men to dress sharp, therefore feel sharp." No quarrel there. Gleason is sharp.

The rest of the list has Omar Sharif as best-dressed actor, Don Rickles as best-dressed comedian, Don Adams as best-dressed television star (no mention of Johnny Carson?), Joseph A. Picone, Leonia, N.J., board chairman of Evan-Picone, as best-dressed businessman.

There is also Frankie Laine as best dressed singer, Arthur Rubloff of Chicago as best-dressed real estate agent, R. Denton Cooley of Houston, Tex., a heart surgeon, as best dressed in medicine and Jerry Orbach, star of the musical hit "Promises, Promises" as best-dressed man of the stage.

Furs For Men

The sultry days of summer have come to an end and the icy, snow-filled days of winter will descend upon us before too long. For centuries, women have sought protection from the bitter cold by snuggling up in furs, while men shivered. Most men, forgetting that furs for men date back as far as the cave-men, thought furs were created exclusively to warm the "weaker sex." The entire image of furs for men has been changed with a collection which is widely varied and totally masculine. The men's fur collection is so extensive that a man can make a conservative entry into the warm, wonderful world of furs with a fur vest or jacket. For the more daring man who is willing to go all the way in fur there are stunning fur coats in regular length or maxis. There's even a wide range of styles. . . from a businessman's coat with a notched collar to a tuxedo made out of broadtail. The whole idea, according to Arthur Phaff, is to make a man comfortable in fur. His collection is designed to fit a man's tastes as well as his proportions.

A perfect introduction to furs for a man is a stunning mouton coat. Plush, natural mouton, dyed in deep shades of brown or black, with a notched collar and deep man-sized pockets. It is guaranteed to keep out the cold while a man travels to and from his office, cheers at a football game or escorts his lady out for the evening. The price is an incredible $179.00.

Why Grow Old?

Josephine Lowman

One reader writes that she never could manage a pushup until she had a child to pick up. If you are the mother of small children, you probably have firm curvaceous arms — proof that your daily activities can magically change your figure. The chances are you have no idea how much lifting you do.

The waist and thighs are different matters. These same mothers can become as flabby in these areas as anyone else who fails to find time for exercise. This is comparatively easy to do in the summer when swimming pools abound and lakes, beaches and rivers beckon. However during winter months, this poses a problem unless one skis or skates. Even when you take the kids sledding, you mostly stand and watch.

Still, there are more possibilities than one might think. For instance most of you probably live fairly near some organization which provides swimming instruction during the cold months, and the chances are that at stated intervals family swims are permitted. Why not take the children to the pool and jump in with them? Swimming can be an all year sport for the whole clan.

There is perhaps a gymnasium not too far away. This may be in a YWCA or YMCA. Some schools open their gyms for family use at certain times. Many churches have gymnasiums. When one is open, you can let the children run off their energy while you take a swing on a rope or even climb up a few notches. You can take a turn on the trampoline, swing on the rings, or try to pull your legs straight up in front of you while holding onto the parallel bars.

The climbing ladders which can be found on the walls of most gyms provide an excellent place for stretching and bending. A few situps or cartwheels (if you are brave) are possible on the mats while your offspring are doing their tricks. Of course, each one of should try only the kind of exercise for which she is in shape. Most young mothers are in pretty good condition and any exercise is a step in the right direction.

Some gymnasiums run family programs. In 1965 the West Side YMCA in New York City started a Sunday afternoon session with slimming exercises for the mothers and gymnastics and swimming lessons for the children (of course the fathers are always welcome-. This program, running from October through Memorial Day, proved so popular that 28 other branches in the city have also started family programs and the idea is spreading like wildfire throughout the state.

So, if you are suffering from midwinter flab, call your nearest YWCA or YMCA, or whatever local gymnasium or pool you can find. If they don't have a family program, suggest that they start one. You will both profit from the venture.

Abby: run to nearest furniture dealer

DEAR ABBY: After sleeping with this 289-pound walrus every night for EIGHT YEARS — and that is 2,920 nights — count 'em, I am ready to call it quits.

From tthe day we were married my husband has insisted on A DOUBLE BED. Don't get the idea that he is some kind of sex maniac because he isn't. He's just afraid to sleep alone.

I mentioned getting twin beds once and he had to bite his lip to keep back the tears.

His side of the bed is swayback just like a hammock. My side is all right, but all night long he reaches for me and pulls me over to his side. I have such a backache some days I can't stand it and I know it's from that broken-down mattress. Don't say get a new one. It would be just like the old one in no time.

Please tell me how I can get my husband to let me have twin beds. We can afford it.

ACHING BACK

DEAR ACHING: Where have you been? SINGLE "TWIN" MATTRESSES with a common headboard (both king-sized and queen-sized) are available. Run, do not walk, to your nearest furniture dealer and let them show you their selection. They'll thank you and you'll thank me.

DEAR ABBY: For two years now "Mr. X" has been living in our house. Some friends think he is my stepfather. Some don't even know he exists. Most of my friends know that my mom is a widow, but what can I say when someone takes me home and asks whose car that is in our garage? Sign me . . .

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Don't lie, and don't feel that you must account for your mother's conduct. If someone asks about the car say "It belongs to a friend of my mother." It does and he is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STILL WAITING" IN BROWNSVILLE: "Be a little more aggressive, and you will either hook him or lose him. You don't say how old you are, but six years is a long time to "wait" for a man to make up his mind.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

News For The Homemakers

Before the age of miracle, no-iron fabrics, the weekly ironing was a long job of sprinkling and rolling, doing sheets and tablecloths and playclothes and curtains . . . a real long, hard job and one that most women detested.

Today, miracle fabrics have cut down on the amount of ironing that must be done, so women feel that the items they do press should come out looking almost professionally done. And with the shortage of domestic help, and the high price of commercial laundries, women are doing just about all of their own ironing.

The steam iron was a great ironing aid. Then came the steam and spray iron, which directed a spray of water over the fabric. Now there is the "Shot of Steam" iron — push a button and a shot of extra penetrating steam goes right where it's needed, to set creases in trousers, remove dryer wrinkles in permanent press fabrics, or aid the home sewer in pressing newly sewn seams. If you're going to shorten your winter coat, the steam will penetrate a heavy pressing cloth to make a good hemline crease in a thick wool.

Opening lead — two of spades.

A reader asks whether I subscribe to the custom of leading the fourth best card on defense. Many players contend that such leads, by their very nature, help declarer more than the other defender.

It seems to me that defense is difficult enough without adding to it the guesswork and the uncertainties created by suppressing information valuable to partner or by introducing the deceptive factor. The key to good defense is good partnership rapport and seldom can a player succeed in fooling declarer without also fooling partner.

This deal illustrates the point. West led the two of spades — his fifth best spade — instead of the five, his fourth best. Dummy played the eight and East quite properly played the ten. When the ten held, East continued with the king.

Declarer took the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, led the jack of diamonds, and finessed. East won with the king and now had to find the right return to beat the contract.

He knew that West had the queen of spades because the ten had won the first trick. He also knew that West had led the deuce of spades, indicating a four-card suit. It followed from this that declarer had another spade to lose. So East returned a spade.

This proved fatal when declarer ruffed the spade and disposed of all his hearts on dummy's diamonds to bring home eleven tricks.

Now let's suppose that West had played normally and led his fourth best spade, the five. Again, East would have won with the ten and returned the king. Dummy would take the ace, but on this trick West would play the deuce to identify his five-card suit.

When East later took his king of diamonds, he would of course appreciate the futility of a spade return — since South could not have another spade — and he would return a heart to put declarer down one.

Smithsonian Institute Has Very Unique Crafts Shop

(C) New York Times Service

Washington — Wendel Castle of Rochester, N.Y., made a desk with a top of silver leaf and a protruding arm which keeps people from getting too close to the person behind.

Lenore Tawny of New York City is weaving a 12-foot by 12-foot "cubed cube" of linen, but it isn't quite finished.

Harvey Littleton of Madison, Wis., blew five blue-green tubes which bend like grass.

Peter Voulkes of Berkeley, Calif., made a clay vessel 26¼ inches high, and a bronze sculpture 96 inches high, 72 inches wide and 48 inches deep.

These four are counted the most influential of the 250 craftsmen from 37 states who are exhibiting 308 objects in the "Objects: USA — the Johnson Collection of Contemporary Crafts." The show opened last Thursday night at an invitational cocktail buffet. It was opened to the public Friday (Oct. 3) and will continue through Nov. 16 at the Smithsonian Institution's National Collection of Fine Arts. The N.C.F.A. Museum shop is selling objects by 35 of the craftsmen.

Ceramics is the largest category, with 99 pieces, followed by fiber or textiles, with 76 objects. Glass blowing, which is enjoying a revival, has 27 exhibits. The smallest category is mosaic, with two entries. There are also enamel, metal, plastic, and jewelry sections.

Lee Nordness, a New York art dealer, and Paul Smith, director of New York's Museum of Contemporary Crafts, traveled 40,000 miles to choose the objects. Home again, they decided "there is no one American style."

As they worked on the last details of setting up the show in the N.C.F.A., moving a label on a jewelry case, calling for more light on a glass bottle, looking in despair for a place to put a bolt of batik (Indonesian hand-painted textile), they expounded on their theory:

"When you look at European crafts, you can say: 'this is Danish,' or 'this is Greek.' But we are a nation of individualists. Everyone of our craftsmen has a style to himself. We have no national style. We can't even say this is a West Coast style or this is a Georgia design.

Informal Party Is Bridal Courtesy

Entertaining in courtesy to a bride-elect of late October was Mrs. Jerry Waldo who was hostess to a group of guests at her home on Monday evening.

During the informal party, a miscellaneous shower was presented to Miss Tracy Hester, whose marriage to Darrell Walton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Walton, will be solemnized Friday, Oct. 24, at St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

Pictured during the party are (from the left) Mrs. Claude Walton, Mrs. Burgess Hester, mother of the bride-elect, the guest of honor and Mrs. Waldo. The very young lady is Miss Denise Capps who, with Miss Tammy Hogle, will attend Miss Hester as flower girl for the ceremony.

Wedding Attendants Announced

Revealing plans this morning for an October wedding is Miss Barbara Jean Petersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Petersen, who has chosen Saturday, Oct. 25 as the date for her marriage to Eldon R. Knehans.

Miss Petersen has named Mrs. Walter Shacklett as her honor attendant for the 7:30 o'clock ceremony, which will be solemnized at Calvary Lutheran Church. The bridesmatron will be Mrs. Dennis Knuth of Oxford, and Miss Janice Knehans, Guide Rock, sister of the bridegroom, will be the bridesmaid. The flower girl will be Miss Lori Petersen of Panama.

Donald Petersen and Thomas Petersen, both of Elmwood, will light the chancel candles.

Serving his brother as best man will be Gary Knehans of Juniata, and William Woods, Hastings, and Douglas Knehans of Guide Rock, brother of the bridegroom, will be groomsmen. Seating the guests will be Marvin Steinke and DeWayne Walker of Hastings. Todd Morse of Cozad will be the ring bearer.

The bride-elect is careering in Lincoln

This All Happened In Minneapolis

BY ENID NEMY
(c) New York Times Service

Minneapolis — No one had ever seen anything like it in this city of park-fringed lakes.

The entrance, from curb to door, was paved with orange vinyl, held flat with stickup tape; a Rembrandt painting of Lucretia, valued at several million dollars, looked down on dinner tables centered with styrofoam wig forms colored in blue, orange and yellow; the fountain sprouted a pair of upside-down legs in turquoise panties, and department store dummies with box-enclosed heads turned up amidst the 17th Century tapestries.

It was the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, transformed last Saturday night into a setting appropriate for a Cubist Ball.

After a day that was nothing but disastrous in this sports loving city (the Minnesota Twins baseball team and the University of Minnesota football team both lost their games) the whimsy perked up a lot of spirits, 660 of them, to be exact.

Most of the spirits were, as art museums go, young. Few of the guests were over 50 and still fewer were members of the traditional esablishment families. The names that stud the institute's trustees and important committee lists, among them Pillsbury and Crosby (milling and Dayton retailing) were notably absent. Some refrained from attending to give the younger members free rein, others were known to prefer exhibit openings, and a sizable group had forsaken the city for private lodges and hunting camps. It was the first day of the duck-shooting season.

"These are the people who are going to make tremendous contribution to the city in the next 10 to 20 years," said Walter G. Robinson, as the guests sat down to their dinner of veal scallops al marsala with wild rice, stuffed artichokes and garlic bread.

Robinson, a bank president in South Yarmouth, Mass., for a quarter of a century, moved to Minneapolis nine years ago to become president of the Society of Fine Arts, the umbrella that shelters both the Institute of Arts and the School of Art.

"The people here are more culturally hep than in the east," he said. "The young people here tonight are not here to be seen; they are genuinely interested in the arts."

They also got one of the better bargains of the season. The $20 a person price tag, including dancing to an orchestra made up of Minneapolis Symphony musicians and a livelier rock band in the "Cubistro" Discotheque was halved for the new members and the members who recruited them. The membership drive netted 400 new family members, bringing the total membership to approximately 5,500.

Mrs. David W. Haskin, wife of a vice president of Minnesota Mutual Life, was chairman of the ball.

She and her committee had arranged a champagne reception in the Fountain Court before dinner, a recent innovation after years of sherry drinking.

"There's a no-no thing about liquor here because the Institute is on land that belongs to the parks board," a committee member explained. "We can't be blatant about it but we don't have straw in our hair, contrary to what people in other parts of the country may think."

It was considered unlikely that anyone would consider 112 bottles of champagne and an equal amount of Portuguese and Rhine wine, divided among 660 people, blatant consumption.

For Mr. and Mrs. Alan H. Moore, the ball was a reinduction to membership after a lapse of 25 years.

"You wouldn't have seen anything like this here even five years ago," said Moore, a senior vice president of the First National Bank of Minneapolis. "It's interesting."

Mrs. Louis Harris, a diminuitive grandmother, didn't agree.

"This is nothing at all," she said. "This isn't swinging. They don't even know what swinging is at this museum."

Weighing everything in balance, Robinson summed it up.

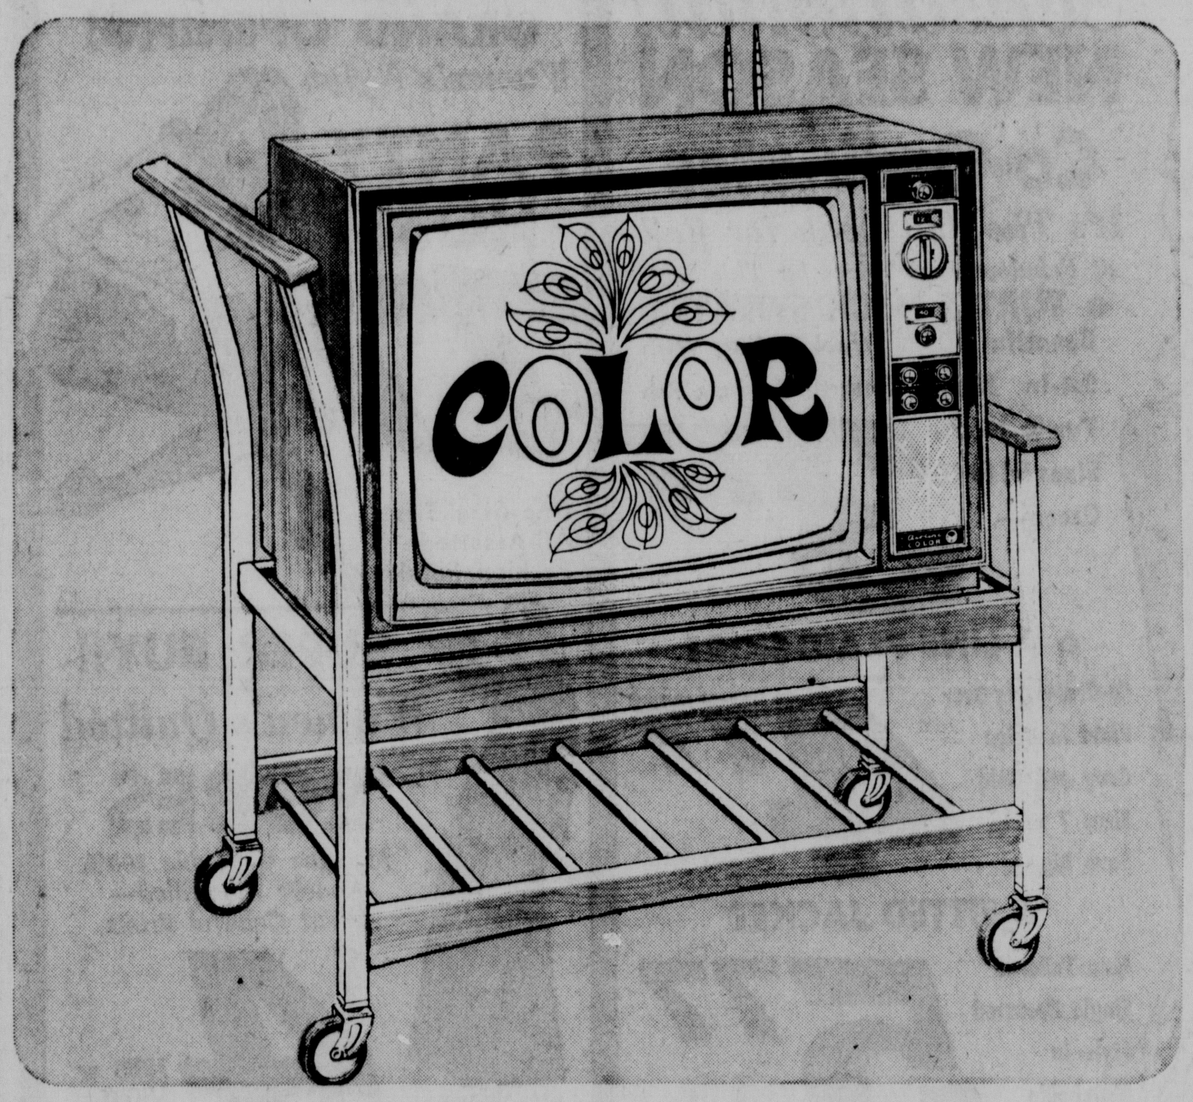

"We're conservative contemporary," he said.

Devine Praises Husker QB's

. . . TAGGE, BROWNSON

By VIRGIL PARKER

As soon as the Missouri Tigers had swept to their third straight win of the season last Saturday in Ann Arbor, a convincing 40-17 triumph over Michigan, thoughts immediately switched to this weekend's battle with Nebraska.

"It's possible there may be a better sophomore quarterback in the country," coach Dan Devine said, "but I'm sure nobody has a better pair than coach Devaney has in Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson."

Tagge engineered the Huskers to a 42-14 win over Minnesota and earned Big Eight Back of the Week honors for his performance.

"That proves what I mean," Devine pointed out, "because Brownson was the quarterback prospect we sought the most while recruiting two years ago."

The Tigers' grid boss, who jokingly said that "Michigan looked so big when we came out of the dressing room I was thinking of having our guys just turn around and go back in," says he expects his club to face the same kind of size disadvantage against the Big Red.

The heaviest defensive lineman in the Missouri starting lineup isn't really heavy by today's football standards.

He's Mark Kuhlman, a senior tackle who has 218 pounds evenly distributed over a 6-3 frame.

"We have a lot of pride in our defensive unit," Kuhlman stated without sounding like he was bragging. "We know that Nebraska will be tough, but against Michigan I played across from as good an offensive blocker as I've ever faced — and he was a huge guy — but we managed to stop them pretty well."

Kuhlman was hurt midway through the encounter with the Wolverines and didn't return, but admits that "I could have gone back if they'd needed me. It was just a muscle cramp. I'll be okay for the Nebraska game."

A St. Louis native, Kuhlman says that even as a senior and a starter for two seasons he still has lots to learn.

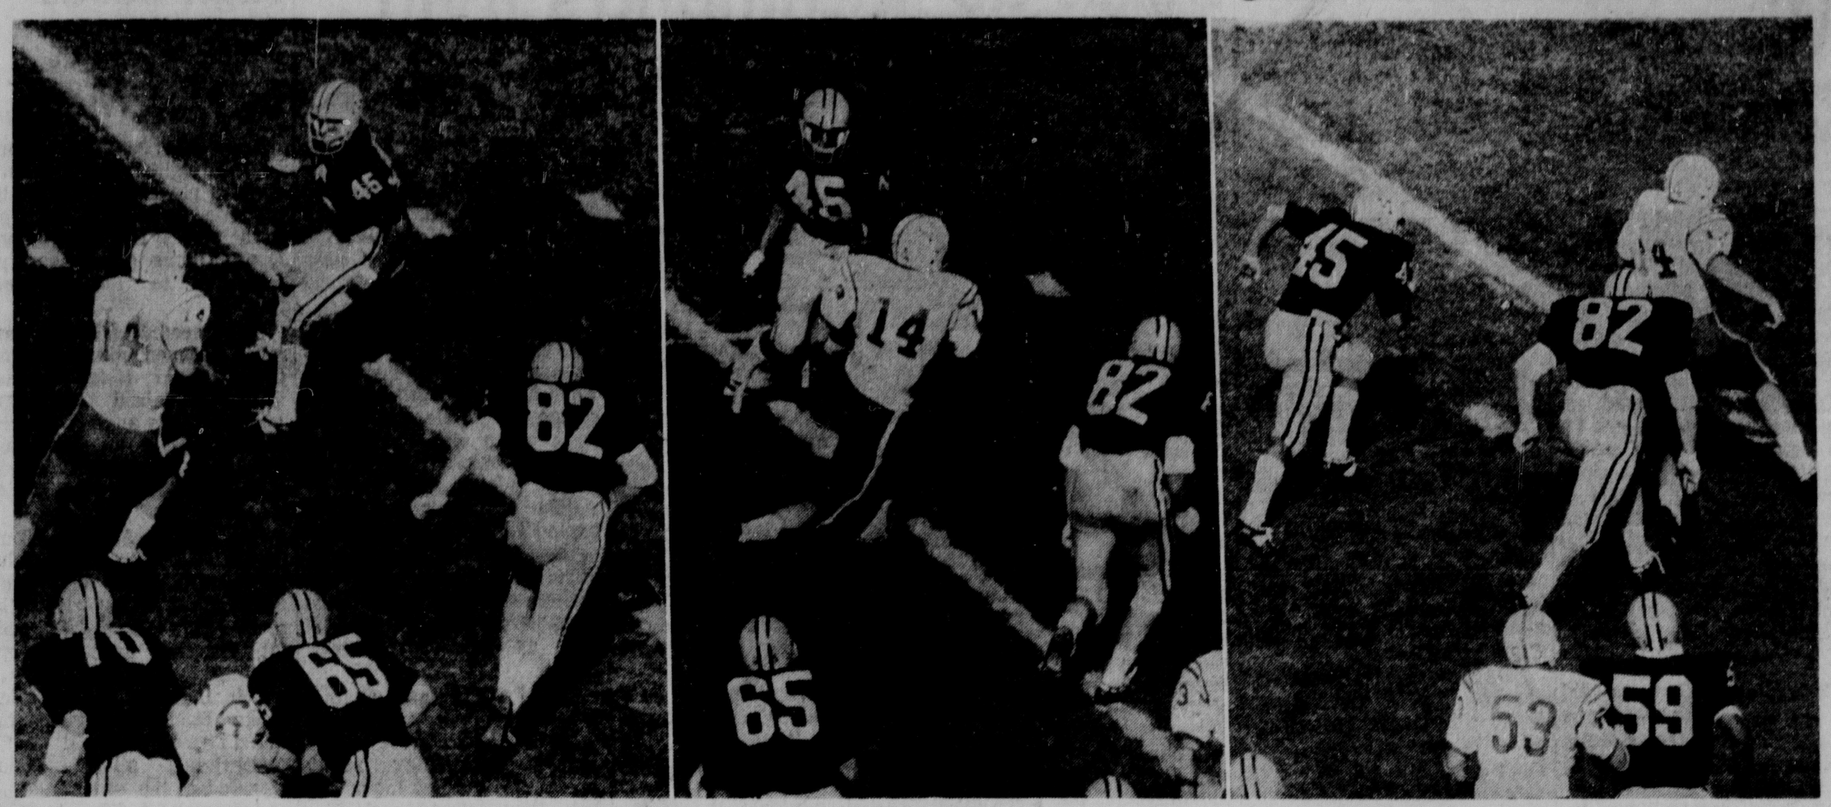

"There's more to the play of a defensive lineman than most people think," he says in an unassuming way. "In high school I was a linebacker, and I just learned to read the quarterback through the fullback. I never realized how many moves by the offense you have to see and interpret to properly decipher the play. I'm still learning."

Both Nebraska and Missouri have been known for outstanding defensive play over the past years. But both clubs have also displayed explosive offensive power this season.

"That means the defense will still determine the outcome," Kuhlman observed. "Whichever one can shut off the other's offense will make the difference."

Kuhlman welcomes the return of running mate, All-Big Eight defensive tackle Rocky Wallace, who hasn't been able to play so far this year because of injuries.

If anyone shuts off the Nebraska offense, you can be sure that No. 79 (Kuhlman) and No. 69 (Wallace) will be playing the leading roles.

Backlund Keeps PGA Golf Crown

Merle Backlund of the Riverside Golf Club in Grand Island made up two strokes on Jerry Dugan of the Omaha Highland Country Club on the final hole Wednesday at the Hillcrest Country Club to retain his Nebraska PGA championship.

Backlund and Dugan went to the 18th hole Wednesday with Dugan holding a one-stroke lead, but Backlund reached the par-5 hole in two and two-putted for a birdie while Dugan took a bogey-6.

Bob Schuchart of Holmes Park in Lincoln, playing ahead of Backlund, missed a three-foot putt at the 18th that would have tied him with Backlund at 150, six-over-par for the 36-hole test.

Backlund had a 73 Wednesday for his 150 while Dugan shot 75 and Schchart 73 for 151.

The top 10:

Merle Backlund, Grand Island	77-73—150
Jerry Dugan, Omaha	76-75—151

Phils Receive Flood, Catcher

. . 7-PLAYER TRADE

Philadelphia (AP) — Rich Allen, the controversial first baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday in a seven player deal that could wind up in the office of the commissioner of baseball.

The Phillies sent Allen to the Cardinals for catcher Tim McCarver, outfielder Curt Flood, relief pitcher Joe Hoerner and utility outfielder Byron Browne. St. Louis also acquired infielder Cookie Rojas and pitcher Jerry Johnson.

The trade, however, had hardly cooled off before the 32-year-old Flood, one of baseball's top defensive outfielders and a consistent hitter, announced he has retired from baseball.

"Once the trade is made it still goes," said a Cardinals spokesman. "The Phillies might throw it into the hands of the commissioner. We're out of it."

General manager John Quinn of the Phillies, who engineered the trade with Bing Devine, his St. Louis counterpart, said he had no comment on the Flood development until after he has had a chance to talk with the veteran outfielder. Earlier, at a news conference, Quinn had said the only thing guaranteed in the deal was that all players were physically sound.

Allen, the pivotal figure in the deal, was overjoyed at the news. "I'm so glad to be out of here (Philadelphia). Six years in this town is enough for anybody. I'm glad to be away from Quinn and all of them. They treat you like cattle."

In a statement released by his public relations agent, Gene Lunn, Flood said: "If I were younger I certainly would enjoy playing for Philadelphia. But under the circumstances, I have decided to retire from organized baseball effective today and remain in St. Louis where I can devote full time to my business interests."

That Allen would be traded was a foregone conclusion. The guessing game was where and for what players. St. Louis got Allen because, of seven clubs who expressed an interest, four in the American League and three in the National, the Cards offered the best deal, Quinn said.

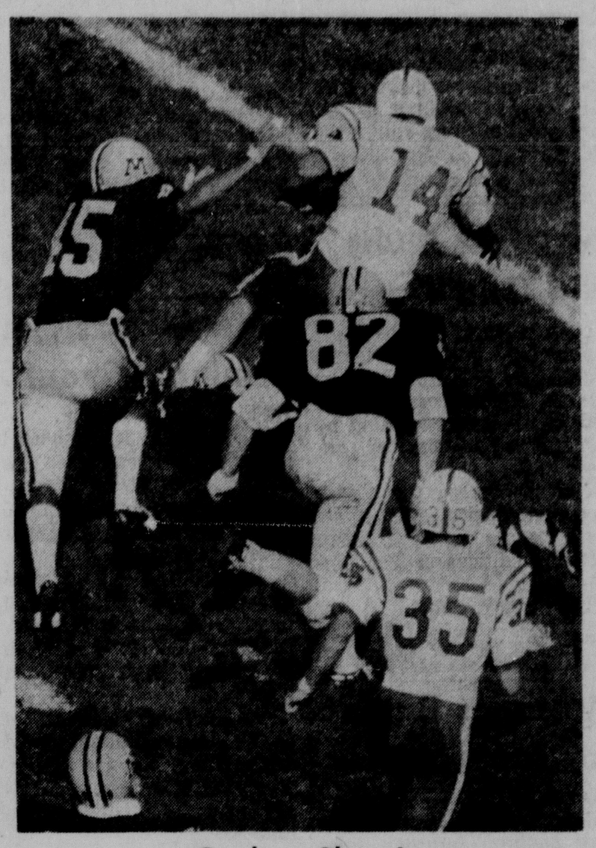

"We wanted a catcher and a relief pitcher and when Flood's name came into it you have to believe any ball club would be happy to have a Curt Flood," said Quinn.

St. Louis obviously gambled that manager Red Schoendienst can accomplish with Allen what former Phillies' managers Gene Mauch and Bob Skinner couldn't — get the budding superstar to conform to club rules. Allen takes with him a history of trouble, including fines and suspensions.

The 27-year-old Allen was a constant target of booing by Philadelphia fans. After his most recent suspension, he declared he never would play for the Phillies again. He relented, however, and finished out the season.

The key to the deal for the Phillies was the acquisition of McCarver, one of the highly rated catchers in baseball. The Phillies have been weak behind the plate. McCarver, 27, has been in two All-Star games and has a .311 average for three World Series. Twice he led the league in defense, in 1965 and 1967.

Flood, 31, also is considered one of the top defensive players at his position. He has been in three All-Star games and three World Series. Twice he led the National League outfielders in putouts.

Links, East, LSE Picked

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Parker's Picks, Page 45.

I knew last week was going to be a bad one. Even my horoscope said so. But I had no idea it would be that bad.

You can call me "Chicken Little," or maybe it's because I'm a little chicken, but I don't even intend to go back through last week's picks to find out from a percentage standpoint how I did.

It suffices to say that I picked Lincoln Southeast over Fremont, East over Lincoln High and Pius X to beat Northeast.

From there on in, it was all uphill.

One consolation, however. Half the people who get this paper think I picked the Links to beat East.

The fellows in the back shop are supposed to print my "pick" in the darker type. They got the choice reversed, and in the first few editions it came out "wrong" (which proved to be right).

Actually, I had hedged so much on the choice in the explanation below, having pointed out that on the basis of the result by the two teams against Hastings that Lincoln High should be the favorite, that nobody knew the difference.

What's in store for this weekend? Capital City fans are in for another crackerjack intra-city clash at Seacrest Field Friday night. Like all the others, it could go either way.

Lincoln High v. Lincoln Northeast (Seacrest Field, Friday)—Comparative scores don't mean a thing when these two tangle, but the defending state champs still haven't lost.

Beatrice at Lincoln East (Seacrest Field, Saturday) — Coach Lee Zentic's Spartans, despite a multitude of injuries, should be able to handle this one.

Lincoln Southeast at Grand Island — The Islanders are showing steady improvement. The Knights if they can keep away from giving up the long gainer this time, should be able to bounce back with a win.

Fremont at Pius X—The Tigers are another club which is getting stronger every Friday. The Bahe brothers look too explosive for the 'Bolts.

Husker Linebacker Kobza Withdraws From NU Team

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Linebacker Dan Kobza has severed his connections with the Nebraska football team, head coach Bob Devaney revealed Wednesday as his Huskers wound up "hard" work for Saturday's Missouri clash at Columbia, Mo.

"He is no longer with us," Devaney said when asked about Kobza's absence from the practcie field. Indications were that it was Kobza's decision.

The 6-0, 210-pounder from Shelby had been a two-year letterman and was running behind Adrian Fiala as the weakside linebacker.

Devaney shifted No. 2 middle guard Ed Periard to that vacant linebacking post and moved Bill Hornbacher up behind Ken Geddes at middle guard.

"Hornbacher is a good football player," Devaney said, "And we're happy to be able to give him more of a chance to play."

Devaney called Wednesday, "the last hard day of work in getting ready for Missouri," then began mulling over decisions needed to cut the husker squad to the 47-man traveling limit allowed by the Big Eight for road trips.

Devaney said he would go two-deep at all positions with the three additional spots being filled by a third center, third quarterback and either another receiver or I-back.

"If Jeff Hughes is all right, we'll probably have to decide between Dale Didur or Dave Mason," Devaney said, "If he can't go, we'll probably take both Didur and Mason."

Didur and Mason are both split ends behind Guy Ingles.

Devaney has another split end candidate in Frank Patrick, who is prepared to go at both tight end and split end.

"We've been working Frank more at tight end because that position is more complicated," Devaney pointed out, "But we still plan to use him some at split end."

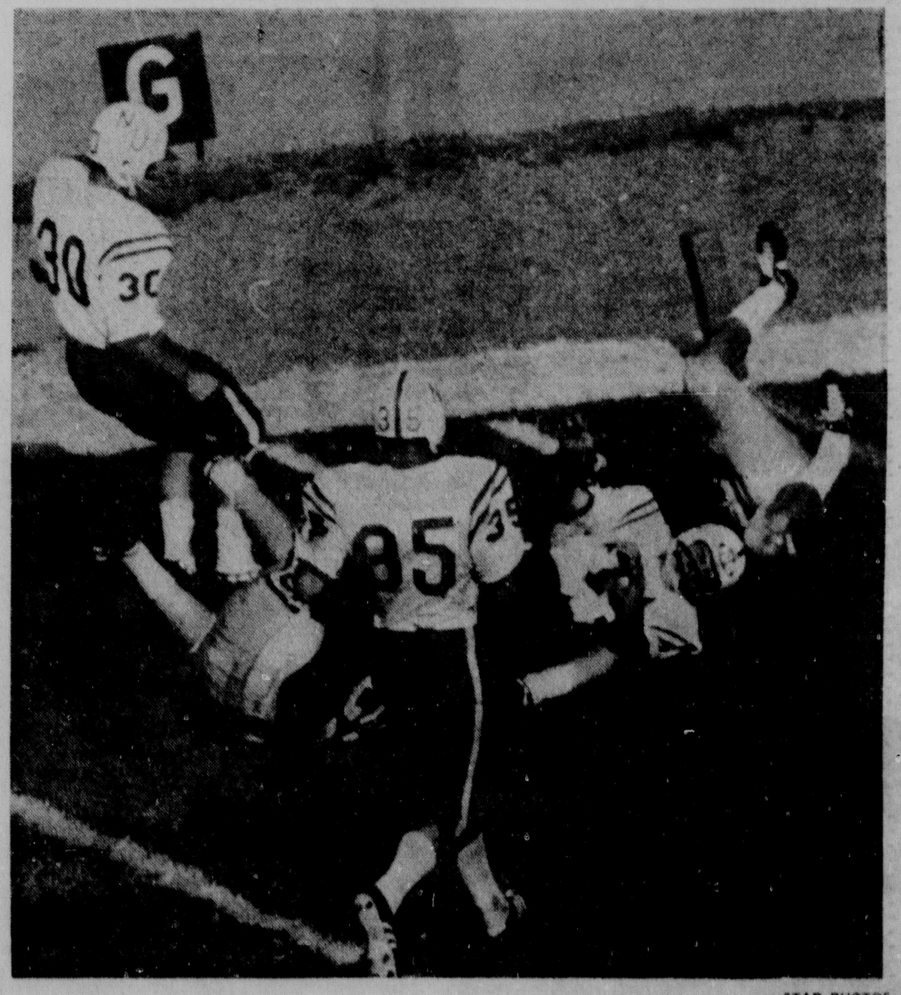

The Husker coach said Bill Bomberger would make the trip as a back-up kicker.

No. 2 right tackle Donnie McGhee missed Wednesday's practice while having work done on his teeth and Husker coaches worked left tackle Bob Newton at right tackle, trying to prepare him for duty on both sides of the offensive line.

Tagge 23rd

Nebraska quarterback Jerry Tagge ranks 23rd in the nation in total offense with his 575 yards.

Missouri's Joe Moore, who the Huskers must stop Saturday, is third nationally in rushing with 438 yards and the Tigers' Henry Brown is third in points by kicking with 26 on eight of nine extra points and six of 10 field goals.

Missourian Crnko Doubtful Saturday

. . . 'BEST BLOCKER'

By Associated Press

Missouri's football coach, Dan Devine, said Wednesday it is doubtful whether Tim Crnko, offensive guard, will play against Nebraska Saturday.

Crnko was injured in the Illinois game and missed last week's contest with Michigan.

"It's an especially serious blow because at the start of the season we moved Sam Adams from offensive to defensive guard," Devine said. "Crnko not only is our best blocker, but our best at covering punts."

Kansas

Coach Pepper Rodgers said Wednesday this week's preparation by the Kansas football squad is the best of the season.

A sell-out crowd will see the Kansas-Kansas State game Saturday.

"People who discount our team because we lost to New Mexico are making a big mistake," Rodgers said. "We will be ready to play, even if we're not good enough to win. Win, lose or draw, we are happy that we have enough enthusiasm in the state to fill the stadium. But I want to make one point clear; we haven't lost yet."

Besides the K-State game, all tickets to the Kansas-Missouri game also have been sold, marking the first time in KU history that there have been two sell-outs in one season.

Kansas State

Kansas State's football team practiced almost two hours Wednesday, stressing a running attack for the big game with Kansas.

"Our kids are really getting cranked up," said Coach Vince Gibson who was pleased with the workout. "We know what we got to do to win. We just have to do it."

Gibson is worried about the Jayhawkers' Ron Jessie and John Riggins. "We want to keep those two from breaking the long run on us," he said.

Gibson also figures Kansas might use the long pass, which has worked against his Wildcats some this fall. "But considering the number of attempts," he added, "We have played good pass defense."

Two East Clubs Win Grid Games

Lincoln East's reserves and sophomore football teams scored a double victory over Lincoln High Tuesday night with the reserves winning by 27-0 and the sophomores winning, 23-0.

The sophomore game was incorrectly reported as the reserve game in Wednesday morning editions of The Lincoln Star.

The reserve game:

Dallas QB Captures AP Award

New York (AP) — If Craig Morton continues to lead the Dallas Cowboys as he did Sunday in Philadelphia, Coach Tom Landry will have no more second thoughts about Don Meredith's retirement.

Morton was slated for the No. 1 job from the day Meredith retired but a dislocated thumb forced him to miss the opener and reduced his passing to a minimum in the second game. Rookie Roger Staubach filled in.

By completing 14 of 18 passes for 261 yards and three touchdowns against the Eagles, Morton earned recognition by The Associated Press as the Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

Calvin Hill, the Cowboys' new super runner who was the Player of the Week after the opener, gave Morton a battle for the honors by running 10 times for 91 yards, completing a 44-yard pass and catching three for 71 yards in the 38-7 romp over Philadelphia. And he only played about half the game due to an ankle injury.

For last second heroics it had to be Joe Morrison of the New York Giants who caught the winning touchdown pass from Fran Tarkenton with 59 seconds to go in a 28-24 victory over the Chicago Bears. It was the second game won by the Giants in the final seconds on a Tarkenton pass.

Jack Snow took three scoring passes from Roman Gabriel in Los Angeles' 36-17 victory over New Orleans and Sonny Jurgensen threw for two touchdowns in the final quarter, with the help of interference calls against Alvin Randolph, to get Washington a 17-17 tie at San Francisco.

John Unitas rallied Baltimore for a 21-14 edge over Atlanta with the aid of a 92-yard kickoff return by rookie Jim Duncan.

St. Louis climbed all over Kent Nix, Pittsburgh's relief passer, to score 17 points in less than four minutes of the second period in a 27-14 triumph. John Gilliam, the wide receiver acquired from New Orleans to replace Bobby Joe Conrad, set a season high with 10 pass receptions for 197 yards and one score.

The defense did a job on Bart Starr and Fred Cox kicked four field goals for Minnesota in a 19-7 triumph over Green Bay.

State Guardsmen Dominate Shoot

Ft. Riley, Kan. — Nebraska National Guardsmen, shooting in the Old Trooper Pistol Tournament here, walked off with 15 trophies in .22 and .45 caliber pistol shooting.

Doyle Languis won eight trophies, Milo Vlasin won four, and Lester Proctor, Merle Wilhelm and Bob Wittstruck each won a trophy.

The men are members of the Nebraska National Guard Pistol team, and are assigned to the 67th Support Battalion which Wittstruck commands.

Rucksdaesehel Shares Izaak Walton Shoot

The final Trophy Shoot of the year was won by Les Rucksdaesehel, who fired a 47 x 50 Tuesday night to win the Class A honors at the Izaak Walton League sponsored trapshoot.

Class B was won by Vernon O'Neal, who hit 41 x 50 and Class C was taken by Trudy Johnson, who broke 34 x 50 In the Trophy Shoots the shooters fire at 25 targets at the 16-yard-line, and 25 targets at their individual handicap yardage.

NU Underdog By 10

Nebraska has been established as a 10-point underdog by the nation's oddsmakers for its Saturday date at Missouri.

Richmond's Irvin Lineman Of Week

Richmond, Va. (AP) — As Richmond's Southern Conference football champions took the field last Saturday night against Virginia Tech, middle guard Dick Irvin recalls he had "never been so up for a game in my life."

"I was out of it . . . really," says Irvin, a 5-foot-10, 208-pound senior from Hastings, Fla. "No matter what I did, it worked. I'd make the wrong move and it came out right."

Most of it must have been right, for Irvin wound up with 16 unassisted tackles and helped out on three others as the Spiders upset Tech 17-10, limiting the Gobblers to 44 yards rushing and holding them without a first down until late in the third quarter.

For his performance Irvin was named College Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press over such other stars as ends Bob Harrell of Florida and Harry Price of New Mexico, tackles Bill Urbanik of Ohio State and John Ward of Oklahoma State, and a quartet of pass receivers who had good days...

Irvin, a sociology major who wants to be a coach, is 22 pounds lighter than last year, when he was an All-Southern choice at middle guard. He went on a crash reducing program because he felt he needed to be quicker.

He's thrilled about being named Lineman of the Week — but it's not much more important to him than was Richomond's first conference championship in history last year or the victory over Tech.

"I had a bad game against the Gobblers last year," Irvin says. "I got hurt in the second quarter, and they really didn't have to block me at all, but they started double-teaming me, and I didn't appreciate it."

Last Saturday night, says Tech coach Jerry Claiborne, "we didn't block Irvin all night."

His own coach, Frank Jones, says Irvin was "getting to the ball-carrier before the ball was. He was really getting across past the pulling guard. A few times he almost got the handoff."

"How can you say anything more about a kid who did all he did in this particular game?" asks Jones. "And he does it all the time for us."

But Richmond's line coach, Dale Haupt — who recruited Irvin four years ago — can say more, and does.

"He's one of the finest defensive linemen I've ever coached. He's mobile and hostile . . . hard to block . . . a vicious tackler."

High Seeds Are Upset In Net Meet

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Four of the eight seeded men's singles players fell by the wayside Wednesday as play in the $50,000 Howard Hughes Open Tennis Championships advanced to the quarterfinals.

No. 1 seed Rod Laver narrowly escaped elimination on the Frontier Hotel Courts. The red-haired southpaw started slowly against Andres Jimeno before he sharpened his backhand line shots to defeat the Spaniard 4-6, 8-6, 6-2.

But follow Aussies Tony Roche, No. 2 seed, John Newcombe, No. 3 and Fred Stolle, No. 8, along with fifth-seeded Tom Okker of Holland, all lost to unseeded opponents.

Bob Lutz of Los Angeles broke Roche's service immediately and the Australian's play disintegrated in the second game as Lutz won 6-4, 6-0.

Pancho Gonzales, who has repeatedly said this will be his last tournament, sparkled against Newcombe. The 41-year-old pro from Malibu, Calif., combined deep serves and well-placed lobs and line shots to run Newcombe off the court, 6-1, 6-2.

Stolle, obviously weary after defeating Roger Taylor of England earlier in the day in a first-round match postponed due to darkness Tuesday, was upended by Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., 13-11, 6-4.

Rain Halts Trial Run

Charlotte, N.C. (AP) — Rain washed out first-day time trials Wednesday for the $116,000 National 500 stock car race, postponing for a day an expected assault on Charlotte Motor Speedway's lap speed records.

Charlie Metro Selected Kaycee Royals' Skipper

. . . GORDON NOW SPECIAL SCOUT

Kansas City (AP) — Charlie Metro, hinting broadly that he plans to hold a tighter rein on his players, took over Wednesday as manager of the Kansas City Royals.

Metro, 50, replaced Joe Gordon, who said he is stepping down at his own request to become a liaison man and special scout for the Royals under Cedric Tallis, executive vice president.

Gordon, 54, managed the Royals in their first season in the American League to the second-best record by an expansion team in modern baseball history. The Royals won 69 games and finished fourth in the American League West ahead of Chicago and Seattle.

Only the Los Angeles Angels in 1961 won more games, 70.

"I thought somebody else could do a better job than I could with these fellows," Gordon told a news conference at Municipal Stadium, "and perhaps I have talents in other areas that can help the Royals.

"Frankly, I've reached the point where I just don't want to manage again. I had been away from managing for eight years when I took this job, and times have changed. It takes a very firm hand to manage today and I'm not a firm-hand type of manager.

"Charlie knows the problems I've had. He is a no-nonsense type guy on that field. I'm a little more looseygoosey type guy. He's going to make these guys play better than they think they can. They're not going to be complacent."

Gordon previously had managed at Cleveland, Detroit and Kansas City, when the Athletics were here.

Metro, who received a one-year contract for 1970, managed the Chicago Cubs for four months in 1962, replacing Lou Klein on June 5 and finishing out that season. He last managed the St. Louis Cardinals' farm team at Tulsa in 1966.

He ended a 17-year playing career in 1953, but made it to the major leagues only as a utility player during the World War II years of 1943-45 with Detroit and the Philadelphia A's. His last six playing years were as a player-manager in the minors.

Metro served the last five weeks of the 1969 season as a coach under Gordon, learning first-hand the Royals' personnel.

"I like to scramble and scrap to win," Metro said of his style of play. "I'm a never-give-up type of guy, and I like to instill this in my players."

Metro will have Bob Lemon, the one-time Cleveland pitching star, as his pitching coach and will retain Harry Dunlop from Gordon's staff as a coach.

Jim McMahon Chosen

Omaha (UPI) — Jim McMahon has been named assistant track coach and cross-country coach at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

McMahon, 23, is currently assisting coach Lloyd Cardwell in cross-country and will handle the distance and middle distance runners during the indoor and outdoor track seasons. He is a graduate student at the school.

Bristol Out As Manager At Cincinnati

Cincinnati (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds disclosed Wednesday that Dave Bristol will not be retained as manager.

The Reds did not say who will replace Bristol, who guided them to a third place finish in the Western Division this year. Bristol was offered a position in the club's front office.

The post would involve handling of special assignments for executive vice president and general manager Robert Howsam who said he wanted Bristol to "remain in the Reds' family."

Howsam said he made the decision about Bristol "after completely reviewing the entire operation."

Only last Friday, Howsam entered into a new two-year agreement with the team.

Bristol joined the Cincinnati coaching staff in 1965 and was named interim manager July 13, 1966. The Reds finished the season seventh — with a 39-38 record under him — and wound up fourth each of the next two years.

Bristol became a member of the Reds' organization in 1951 when he played with their Welch farm club in the Appalachian League. He managed teams for nine years, and before being chosen as coach with the Reds, he guided their San Diego team in the Pacific Coast League.

Clay-Frazier Fight Refused

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — The governor of Nevada Wednesday refused to permit a proposed boxing match in Las Vegas between Cassius Clay, the defrocked heavyweight champion, and Joe Frazier, who is recognized in five states as the titleholder.

Don Digilio, state athletic commission member, said East Coast promoters whom he did not identify wanted to stage such a match here.

There was no indication Clay or Frazier had agreed to such a fight.

"Until Clay has cleared up his trouble with the government, I don't feel we should be the only state to let him fight," Gov. Paul Laxalt said in a statement.

Mets' Lineup Features Four Changes For Opener

New York (AP) — Gil Hodges will switch to his regular righthanded hitting lineup when the New York Mets open the World Series Saturday in Baltimore, benching four lefties who hit .380 against Atlanta.

Hodges announced the changes Wednesday after the Mets' scheduled workout at Shea Stadium was washed out. Some of the players did some running and Tom Seaver, Saturday's starter, threw in the bullpen for 15 minutes.

The Mets have used a revolving lineup all year, platooning at several positions and making other changes to cover up for injuries or military duty.

"If it is true that Mike Cuellar (a left-hander) is pitching for Baltimore, as I have read," said Hodges, "I will go to the right-handed lineup."

The new lineup would put Ron Swoboda in right field instead of Art Shamsky who had seven hits and batted .538 against the Braves. Al Weis would be on second base for Ken Boswell, a .333 hitter against the Braves with two homers. Ed Charles would go to third base for Wayne Garrett, whose first homer since May 6 was the winning blow in the third game with Atlanta. Donn Clendenon would take over from Ed Kranepool at first base.

It was this same right-handed lineup that played against Steve Carlton, the St. Louis lefty, Sept. 24 when the Mets clinched the National League East.

Hodges listed Seaver (25-7) and Jerry Koosman (17-9) as pitchers for the two games in Baltimore. They are due to be opposed by Cuellar (23-11) and Dave McNally (20-7), a pair of left-handers. It is expected that rookie Gary Gentry (13-12) will pitch the third game next Tuesday for the Mets.

The Mets held a meeting Wednesday morning and then scheduled a noon workout for Thursday and a 1:30 p.m. workout in Baltimore Friday. The club will leave for Baltimore at 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

Seaver, who suffered a strained muscle in his left leg while running in the outfield at Atlanta Sunday, said the leg did not bother him at all when he threw for 15 minutes.

"I'll try not to be as nervous as I was," said Seaver referring to the first game in Atlanta which he won although hit hard. "I was too nervous for my own good in Atlanta."

Hodges said Bob Scheffing and Sheriff Robinson had scouted the Orioles in their American League playoff series with Minnesota. But he said no detailed scouting report would be necessary because he and his coaching staff were familiar with the Orioles from their days in Washington. Hodges managed Washington from 1963 through 1967.

"We're going to meet with Scheffing and will go over the Baltimore club with our players at a meeting Friday in Baltimore," said Hodges. "We know their personnel pretty well and we also have some players who were in the American League—Al Weis, J. C. Martin and Tommie Agee — who know them."

Hodges said he often used the four-outfielder shift against Frank Robinson when he was with Washington and would do it again in certain situations.

"Baltimore has a great ball club," said Hodges. "I don't believe there are any starters I don't know although I am not so familiar with fellows like (Elrod) Hendricks and (Merv) Rettenmund. And I don't know Cuellar too well. Against McNally, a low ball pitcher, I might have some second thoughts about the lineup and use Boswell."

Asked if the Monday-Saturday lag might have some affect on the Mets, Hodges said.

"I don't believe there ever was a team that went into a World Series down. If they did they were in the wrong business. There is only one World Series. That's what you have been trying to accomplish since last October. All vacations start after the World Series is over."

Gonella Leads RMAC

Denver (UPI) — Omaha quarterback Rocco Gonella topped total offense in statistics released by the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference Wednesday.

Gonella has rolled up 271.6 yards per game in conference action.

Oriole Players Figure They're Sounder Club

Baltimore (AP) — Catcher Clay Dalrymple of the Baltimore Orioles concedes the New York Mets will have at least one advantage in the World Series which opens Saturday.

"They're used to playing before large crowds," said Dalrymple, who played nine years in the National League before being obtained in a trade this year. "But that's their only advantage."

After having dispensed with that snide remark, directed at Baltimore's home attendance which barely reached one million this season, Dalrymple tried to analyze the Series.

"On paper, we have a sounder club," he said. "We figure to have more power, a better defense and we're thick in pitching."

"But now, all that means nothing. It's the outcome that counts. We have to start from scratch, just as we did for the American League playoffs. We can't assume anything. That happens too often in sports."

"The last time I saw the Mets," Dalrymple said, "they were a ninth-place club. But it's obvious they're much better now.

"Everyone says the Mets' pitching was the big factor, and it probably was early in the year when the pitchers kept the team in the game.

"Then everything fell into place, and the hitters started taking over."

Dick Hall, the relief pitcher who played two years for the Phillies before being reacquired by the Orioles, toyed Phillies before being reacquired by the Orioles, toyed with a myriad of written figures while computing the mathematical probabilities involved in a best-of-7 series.

"Even with an obvious advantage," said Hall, an off-season accountant, "the best team doesn't always win because of the nature of the game and the nature of chance."

Frank Robinson's analysis was not as erudite as that offered by professor Hall. The veteran outfielder was more direct — and brimming with more confidence.

"I think it will be a good series," Robinson said, "but no more than five or six games.

"It's hard to believe that the Mets will hit our pitchers as hard as they did the Braves in the playoffs. In fact, there's no way they can.

"As for their pitchers, Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman could be tough, but I don't think our hitters will be held in check. We respect the Mets, but we think we're the best team in either league."

Witness Says Rubin, Seale Urged Fighting With Police

Chicago (AP) — A key government witness testified Wednesday that he heard two of the eight men charged with inciting violence during Democratic National Convention week in 1968, urge crowds to fight police in the streets.

Robert Pierson, a Chicago policeman, told a U.S. District Court jury of 10 women and 2 men that he posed as a motorcycle gang member and became a bodyguard for Jerry Rubin, a Yippie leader who is one of the defendants.

Pierson described several conversations he said he had with Rubin in August 1968 in Lincoln Park and in Grant Park, sites of clashes between police and antiwar demonstrators.

'See You In Streets'

Pierson testified that Rubin spoke to a crowd of 1,000 persons Aug. 26, 1968, in Lincoln Park. He quoted Rubin as saying, "The elections are phony. We must disrupt the elections. We must become fighters and take to the streets in small groups. See you in the streets tonight."

Pierson testified that another defendant, Bobby G. Seale, a Black Panther leader, spoke to the crowd. Pierson quoted Seale as saying, "The time for singing 'We Shall Overcome' is past. It's time to buy .357 magnums, .45-caliber pistols, carbines and kill pigs. We must break up into small groups and surround the pigs."

Seale stood up in court when Pierson mentioned his name earlier. Seale asked Judge Julius J. Hoffman to strike the testimony because he was not defended by the counsel of his choice. Judge Hoffman ordered a marshal to make Seale sit down, and he noted as he has done many times in relation to words or actions by the defendant, "the matter will be appropriately dealt with at a later time."

Diary Brought Up

Pierson testified that Rubin gave him a diary which Pierson later turned over to police, then told Rubin he burned it to prevent police from getting it. The contents of the dairy were not disclosed.

Pierson also testified that Rubin once pointed to a policeman, saying "Look at that fat pig. We should isolate one or two pigs and kill them."

Rubin was released from the Cook County Jail Wednesday after serving a three-day sentence stemming from a 1966 demonstration in Berkeley, Calif.

Radicals Use Bricks On 2 Police Cars

Chicago (AP) — Young radicals marched through the Near North Side Wednesday night, smashing five store windows, battering two squad cars and clashing briefly with police.

At least 15 persons were arrested on the first night of an announced four-day Students for a Democratic Society national action.

Most of the arrests came after a cordon of 60 police blocked off a column of marchers at Clark and Division Streets. The demonstrators pounded on two police cars with bricks, smashing windshields as a crowd of perhaps 1,000 persons gathered.

As police moved in to arrest some of the protesters, the others faded into the crowd or dashed into side streets.

They had announced their destination as a nearby hotel.

Another column of protesters was halted by police west of Lincoln Park in the Old Town district. Four men and a woman were placed in a police van after a brief scuffle.

Earlier, the radicals had massed in Lincoln Park for a "revolutionary heroes night." Capt. Robert J. Lynskey, commander of police units in the area, estimated the crowd at 500.

The national action has been called by the militant Weatherman faction of the SDS. The less militant RYM II faction, as well as the Black Panther Party and other leftist groups, said earlier they disassociated themselves from the action.

Gloria Armstrong, 10, of Winnebago, Minn., right, plays happily with Teresa Dressen, a fifth grade schoolmate and close friend. Gloria is the adopted daughter of white parents, Dr. and Mrs. R.S. Armstrong of Winnebago. Community acceptance of interracil adoption has been widespread in Minnesota.

Discount Rate Is Raised As France Tightens Credit

Paris (AP) — The Bank of France discount rate has been raised from seven to eight per cent, Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing told the French National Assembly Wednesday.

The increase gives France, with Britain, the highest discount rate in Europe.

The action was taken to make the price of borrowing more expensive in an effort to cut the volume of credit in France.

Further measures to tighten credit are expected as the government works to slow down internal consumption. Heavy, recurring deficits in the foreign trade balance have led to heavy pressure on the franc, which is near its lowest level since the August devaluation.

Cabinet Passes French Budget

Paris (AP) — The French cabinet apporved Wednesday a 1970 budget which will be in balance for the first time in five years. President Georges Pompidou used the occasion to declare "the franc is not threatened, it does not need to be defended."

The budget which will be submitted to the National Assembly calls for receipts of 178,738,000,000 france—$32,497,000,000 and expenses of 177,788,000,000 francs—$32,325,000,000. This leaves a surplus of 950 million francs—$172 million.

Committee OKs Minting Of Coin To Honor Ike

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Banking Committee approved legislation Wednesday to authorize minting of a new one-dollar coin bearing the image of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A joint resolution, sponsored by Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, would provide that the coin be 75% copper and 25% nickel.

The House failed to pass a similar resolution Monday under suspension of the rules which requires a two-thirds vote. Another try, with a rule and requiring only a majority vote, will be made later.

Nixon Proclaims Day Of Prayer

Washington (AP) —President Nixon Wednesday officially proclaimed National Day of Prayer Oct. 22 and urged the nation to pray "for the achievement of America's goal of peace with justice for all people throughout the world."

In the proclamation, Nixon said: "At a time in our nation's history when the power of prayer is needed more than ever, it is fitting that we publicly demonstrate our fath in the power of prayer."

Three People Die In Indian Riots

Calcutta (AP) — The Indian army was put on alert Wednesday in Namrup, Assam State, after rioting between local people and settlers from other states took at least three lives.

The government imposed an indefinite curfew.

Rioting began last Saturday when a Namrup youth was beaten to death after his motorcycle knocked down a migrant pedestrian.

Sixteen houses and shops have been burned and looted. Some 250 people were under arrest.

Machine Income To Help Later?

Rome, Ga. (UPI) — Berry College President Dr. John Bertrand Wednesday presented a check for $176.76 to the Floyd County cancer fund — all of it derived from a cigarette vending machine on campus.

A sign on the machine reads: "Berry's income from this machine is donated to the cancer fund. If you smoke, later you may need help from the cancer fund."

Bonn Lifts Tax Guarding Export Trade

Bonn, Germany (AP) — West Germany's outgoing coalition government decided Wednesday to temporarily suspend tax measures to guard the export trade against the effects of a freely floating mark exchange rate.

The move which still requires the European Common Market's approval would mean that the four per cent exports surtax and four per cent tax relief on imports imposed last November would be removed until midnight Nov. 30.

Economics Minister Karl Schiller told newsmen he wanted the move to be accompanied by a revaluation of the mark, but was overruled by opponents in Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrat-dominated coalition.

But Schiller pledged that when the new coalition of his Social Democrats and the Free Democrats takes office as planned Oct. 20, it will quickly find "a clear, final and convincing solution to the German currency problem."

Five Youths Held For Marijuana Possession

Five youths were being held by police Wednesday pending possible charges for possession of marijuana.

Police said the youths, who they declined to identify, were found with a sizeable amount of marijuana in their possession.

Hollywood (UPI) — Walt Disney Productions has organized a new motion picture arm dedicated to education films, in addition to cinema projects for business, industry and the government.

House Rejects $1 B Pollution Control G

Washington (UPI) — The House rejected an amendment for $1 billion in water pollution control grants Wednesday and decided to stick with a $600 million sum recommended by its appropriations committee.

The battle, with the Nixon administration on the winning side, was the major focus of contention as the House passed without amendment a bill appropriating $4.485 billion for public works projects and the Atomic Energy Commission in the 12 months ending next June 30.

Although the administration could count the water pollution vote a victory, the $600 million left in the bill was far above the $214 million Nixon requested.

The funds are used to provide matching grants to state and local governments for water treatment plants.

In a letter to the House, Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel said Congress ought to stick with Nixon's figure because sustain" budget by the Preside gress.

Senate Passes Strict B To Control Water Poll

Washington (UPI) — The Senate passed Wednesday a tough water pollution bill to outlaw the discharge of oil in navigable waters and force polluters to pay the cleanup costs from oil spills. The vote was 86-0.

The measure also sets in motion a program designed to curb the amount of pesticides in the nation's water supply. Under the program, DDT could be banned from watersheds where it is shown to endanger fish or make drinking water unsafe.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the Senate's chief authority on pollution problems, is stronger than a water pollution bill passed by the House. The Muskie bill now goes to a conference committee of House and Senate members to reconcile differences.

The legislation makes the operator of an offshore oil well facility liable to up to $8 million in damages to pay the cleanup costs when an offshore well blows, spilling oil on nearby beaches.

It cost $3.4 million to clean the beaches around Santa Barbara, Calif., after an offshore well January. That i ted the new leg

New Low Averted In Dow Industrials

New York (AP) — The stock market — as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average — narrowly escaped becoming mired in a new 1969 low Wednesday.

In early afternoon, the widely watched Dow industrials had slipped below the year's closing low of 801.96 — reached July 29 — but the market mounted a brief rally that was enough to avert a new bottom.

The average closed with a loss of 4.03 at 802.20. At 1 p.m. EDT it had been down 5.48 to 800.75 but in the next hour shaved the decline to 2.77.

Analysts said the slow pace of activity this week has been due to investors' anxiety as to whether the Dow industrials would fall below 800, which is considered an important milestone from a psychological standpoint.

Appraising the over-all market picture, the brokerage firm of Diamond, Turk & Co. commented:

"Too much remains to be done, both in the battle against North Vietnam and in the battle against inflation. Until there are some surer signs of progress in either or both of these areas, we expect the market to continue to churn around current levels, with the chance of any breakout weighted towards the downside."

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell to a new 1969 low of 218.8 on a loss of 1.4. Industrials declined 1.9 to a low for the year, utilities were off 1.2, and rails were down .3. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks dropped 0.25 to 51.49.

The loss on the New York Stock Exchange was on a broad front, with 880 declines and 446 advances among 1,588 issues traded. There were 127 new 1969 lows against 11 new highs.

Volume on the Big Board rose to 10.38 million shares from 10.05 million Tuesday.

The lineup among the 20 most-active stocks on the Big Board was 11 declines, 7 advances, and 2 unchanged.

Texaco, mainly on blocks of 98,400 and 39,500 shares, became the most-active issue on total volume of 218,100, closing at 30¾, off ⅜.

Memorex, a company engaged in the burgeoning magnetic tape and disk pack field, spurted 5⅜ to 104⅝. Price changes among other actively traded Big Board stocks included Seaboard World Airways, off 1 at 17; Monsanto, off 1⅜ at 36⅜; Natomas, off 1 at 91⅝; Celanese, off 1 at 59¼; and Sears Roebuck off ⅞ at 66⅝.

Steels, rubbers, aircrafts, nonferrous metals, chemicals, rails, oils and building materials were mostly lower.

Prices declined on the American Stock Exchange. The exchange index fell 11 cents to $26.48. Of 1,036 issues traded, 556 dropped, and 254 rose. Volume of 3.66 million shares compared with 2.91 million Tuesday.

Buyers Drag Feet In Slow Beef Market

Omaha (AP) — Cattle trading was slow Wednesday as buyers drug their feet in the face of a slow beef market.

Steers were mostly 25, instances 50 lower while heifers were called at 25-50 lower trend. Most all sales were at the full downturn on the closing rounds.

Cows were fully steady in more active trading.

Bulls were also unchanged. Feeders in the run were generally consigned to Friday's auction.

Choice and prime 1,100-1,347 lb. steers drew 28.50-28.65 with at least a dozen loads included at the bottom figure. Bulk top on choice loads was 28.25.

Beef cows sold at 21.50, semi-beef 20.00-20.50.

Butcher hogs lost another quarter as the trade reacted to steep declines in the dressed market. Pork loins were off as much as 1.50 in the east and other pork cuts were down around 1.00 in slow moving dealings.

Sows were steady to 25 lower, the downturn centering mostly on weights over 500 lbs.

Bulk butchers 200-240 lbs. sold 25.00-25.50, a short load around 220 lbs. 25.60-25.75.

Sows turned 22.75-24.35 for weights under 600 lbs.

Slaughter lambs were steady; choice and prime shorn moved 28.75-29.00, same grade wools brought 28.00-28.50.

Ewes were quoted steady at 9.00 and down.

Direct Cattle Sales

Omaha (AP) (USDA) — Trading direct at feedlots in the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska Wednesday turned slow, steers and heifers sold steady to weak, instances 25 lower. Sales were confirmed on 1,900 head, mostly on a live basis.

Choice steers 1,000-1,250 lbs. 27.50-28.50, choice prime also at 28.50; choice heifers 850-1,000 lbs. 26.50-27.00, top choice 950-975 lbs. 27.50.

Slaughter steers and heifers sold direct to packing plants but weighed at feedlots with 3-4% pencil shrink or the equivalent. Carcass weight basis: Choice steers 1,000-1,175 lbs. 44.50-45.50, mostly 44.50-45.00, load 1,025 lbs. 44.00; choice heifers 875-975 lbs. 42.50-43.00, instances 43.50. Dressed prices based on hot weights.

Corn, Soybeans Relatively Strong

Chicago (AP) — The possibility of a smaller cotton crop this year encouraged the buying of commodity futures on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday that yield oils which compete with cottonseed oil in world markets.

As a result, corn and soybeans futures closed on a relatively strong tone. Trade was mixed, although public participation was fairly light, compared to recent sessions.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported, after the exchange had opened on a weak tone, that unusually wet fields and insect infestation had caused a reduction of 560,000 bales in its 1969 cotton production estimate based on an Oct. 1 survey, compared with its estimate a month earlier. This could result in less cottonseed oil in the markets, and possibly greater use of soybean and corn oil.

At the close, wheat was ¼ cent a bushel lower to ½ higher, December 1.35½; corn was ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, December 1.17¾; oats were ¼ lower, December 63¾; rye was ⅛ to ¼ lower, December 1.13¾; and soybeans were ⅛ to ¾ higher, November 2.39⅜.

FBI Says Hoss Admits Kidnaping

Pittsburgh (UPI) — Stanley Barton Hoss Jr. admitted Wednesday he had kidnaped Mrs. Linda Mae Peugeot and her daughter, Lori Mae, 2, in Cumberland, Md., the FBI announced.

Hoss, who also is accused of killing a Verona, Pa., policeman, did not disclose the fate of the mother and child.

The FBI said they had traced Hoss from Maryland through Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota and into Iowa where he was captured last Saturday.

Agents said Hoss had been seen with the Peugeot girl at motels in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois.

In a federal warrant charging Hoss with the kidnaping, the FBI said the Peugeots were taken Sept. 22 from a shopping center in Lavale, Md., a suburb of Cumberland.

Hoss, an escaped convict who had been the subject of a nationwide search for 15 days, was captured last Saturday in a restaurant parking lot across the street from the Waterloo, Iowa, police department.

Until Wednesday he had refused to comment on the Peugeots and police and FBI agents searched from Maryland to Iowa for clues to the fate of the Peugeots.

New Leader Installed

Rawalpindi (UPI) — Abdul Rahman Khan has been installed as president of Pakistan-controlled Azad Kashmir. Khan, 51, said his main task will be to help write a new constitution and hold district elections.

Nixon Discusses Arms Limitation

Washington (AP) — President Nixon met with the National Security Council Wednesday. The effort to launch strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union was reported to be among topics discussed.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said there still has not been a response from the Soviet Union to U.S. efforts to get the talks under way.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

In Wyoming, only the capital, Cheyenne, and Casper have more than 20,000 inhabitants.

The 19th Amendment to the Constitution gave the vote to women Aug. 26, 1920.

Three forces will demand home construction increases in the next five years — the release of ¾ million servicemen after Vietnam; pressures from Negroes for upgraded housing; the shift from apartments to single family housing by World War II war babies.

Scientists differ as to how lunar craters were formed. Some say it was by erupting volcanoes and others say it was meteors crashing into the moon.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
